"Just ten more minutes." "OK I'm leaving now." Those few more minutes of sleep would just make the difference between a great day and one of hazy indifference. But before we knew it, five minutes became fifteen, and fifteen became forty-five; until it was finally time to get up . . . and only twenty minutes before school was to start. No problem, right? The obvious and rational solution to the situation was easy to see . . . simply don't go. After five minutes of growing self-conviction, however, it became clear, according to the calendar, it was the last day to make up that test in second period that would make or break your semester grade. So . . . with ten minutes left, it was out of bed, into and out of the shower, on with the clothes, suck up the Cheerios, and out the door. No problem; ten minutes was plenty of time. And so . . . we were only twenty-five minutes late—we made it! And maybe even got in a little last minute studying to boot! Then again the test was a total failure anyway, not to mention the two pop quizzes in fourth and fifth periods that day.

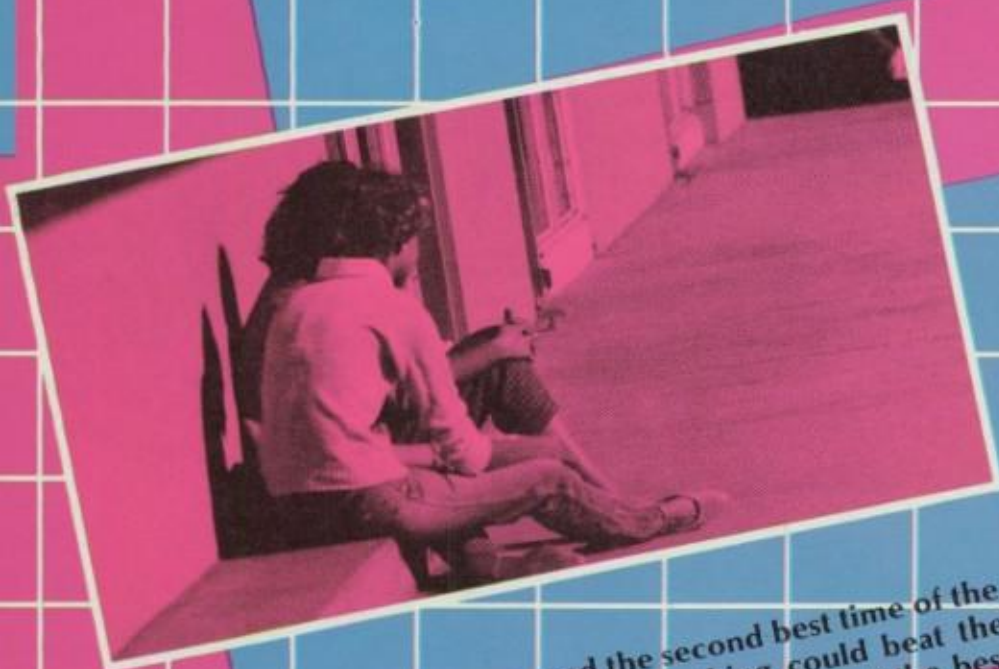

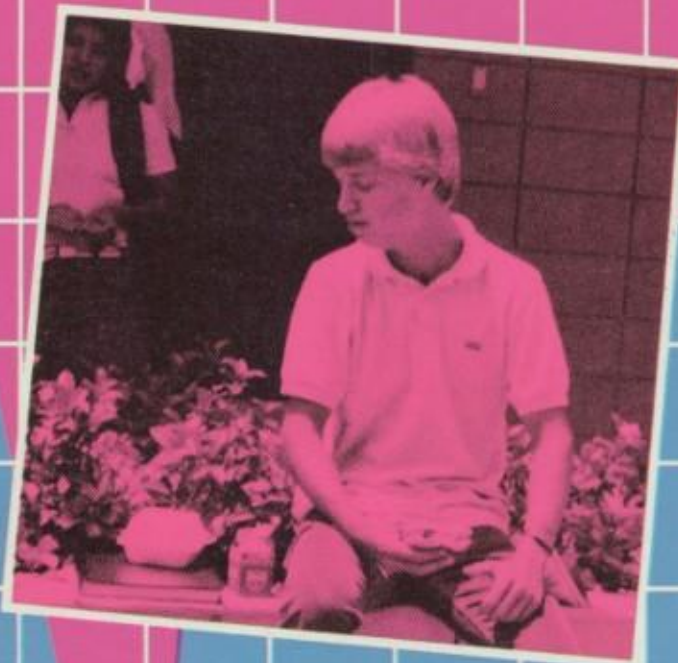

Deep within all of us is an inborn need to barter ... In the early days of elementary school the need was fulfilled with marbles. In junior high it was a banana and two Oreos for one Zinger, now it was Biology notes for Mrs. Kluxdal's note cards, or trading puffis on the west end during snack. Many believed snack simply promoted tooth decay; but as we look back we realize how it actually helped initiate us into the real world, as we fought the lines and haggled with the snack ladies. For those only interested in the social, there were the activities by the swimming pool and the ASB activities in the quad, which generally found that likes of the Pensko brothers or Jennifer Cowan insisting that being involved was fun ... and it was.

Finally fourth period is over and the second best time of the day had arrived-lunch! Of course nothing could beat the end of sixth period but lunch sure tried. Some of the best times were had at lunch, from going to the liquor store with Gina Lopez and Angie Fabela or Daric Lennard and Ron Williams to just hangin' around the Star Room like Mike Lewis and company; or Thong Nguyen, Marty Martinez, Quan Nguyen and Victor Serrato. For sophomores like Kris Hornby the parent lunch pass gave new freedoms of supposed maturity, others just "Went over the fence." However, if it was Border park, Burger King, the Ag. Lab, or just the parking lot it was a welcome relief from schedules and drill.

Remedy!

I am glad we became good friends this year, you are the best friend anyone could have. I can't believe this year has gone by so fast. I hope we will always have our friendship.

You are a very special friend. Let's do something together this summer.

(Love Cats K.T.)

2:30 ... another day ... for some it meant practice with
Mrs. Cutter, for Susi
Krueger and the cheerleaders it was getting ready for Friday's rally; for Mrs.
Naylor it meant loading the buses one more time. But for most, it meant a mad dash for the french fries or refrigerator and FM. The rhythms of Madonna and Billy Idol soothed the tired brain cells as we "kicked back" before work and homework ... that was

Since the formation of society, man has been continually hampered by so called work. In general people like to work in order to obtain currency; which will only be used in selfish acts of squander. These are the Mike Geisers' of civilization, cashiers at fast food chains, who's job it was to assimilate large quantities of cash in return for small amounts of food. The main reason for these countless hours of sweating and doing what the boss says is to have ones own freedom. Forget the idea of begging Mom and Dad for ten bucks and the car to go out and have fun, you're working to get your check and blow it all on a weekend. But, then it doesn't matter because now you don't have money to buy lunch or put gas in the car you saved up for, so there you go again giving your folks a sob story and spilling your guts on the floor for a little cash.

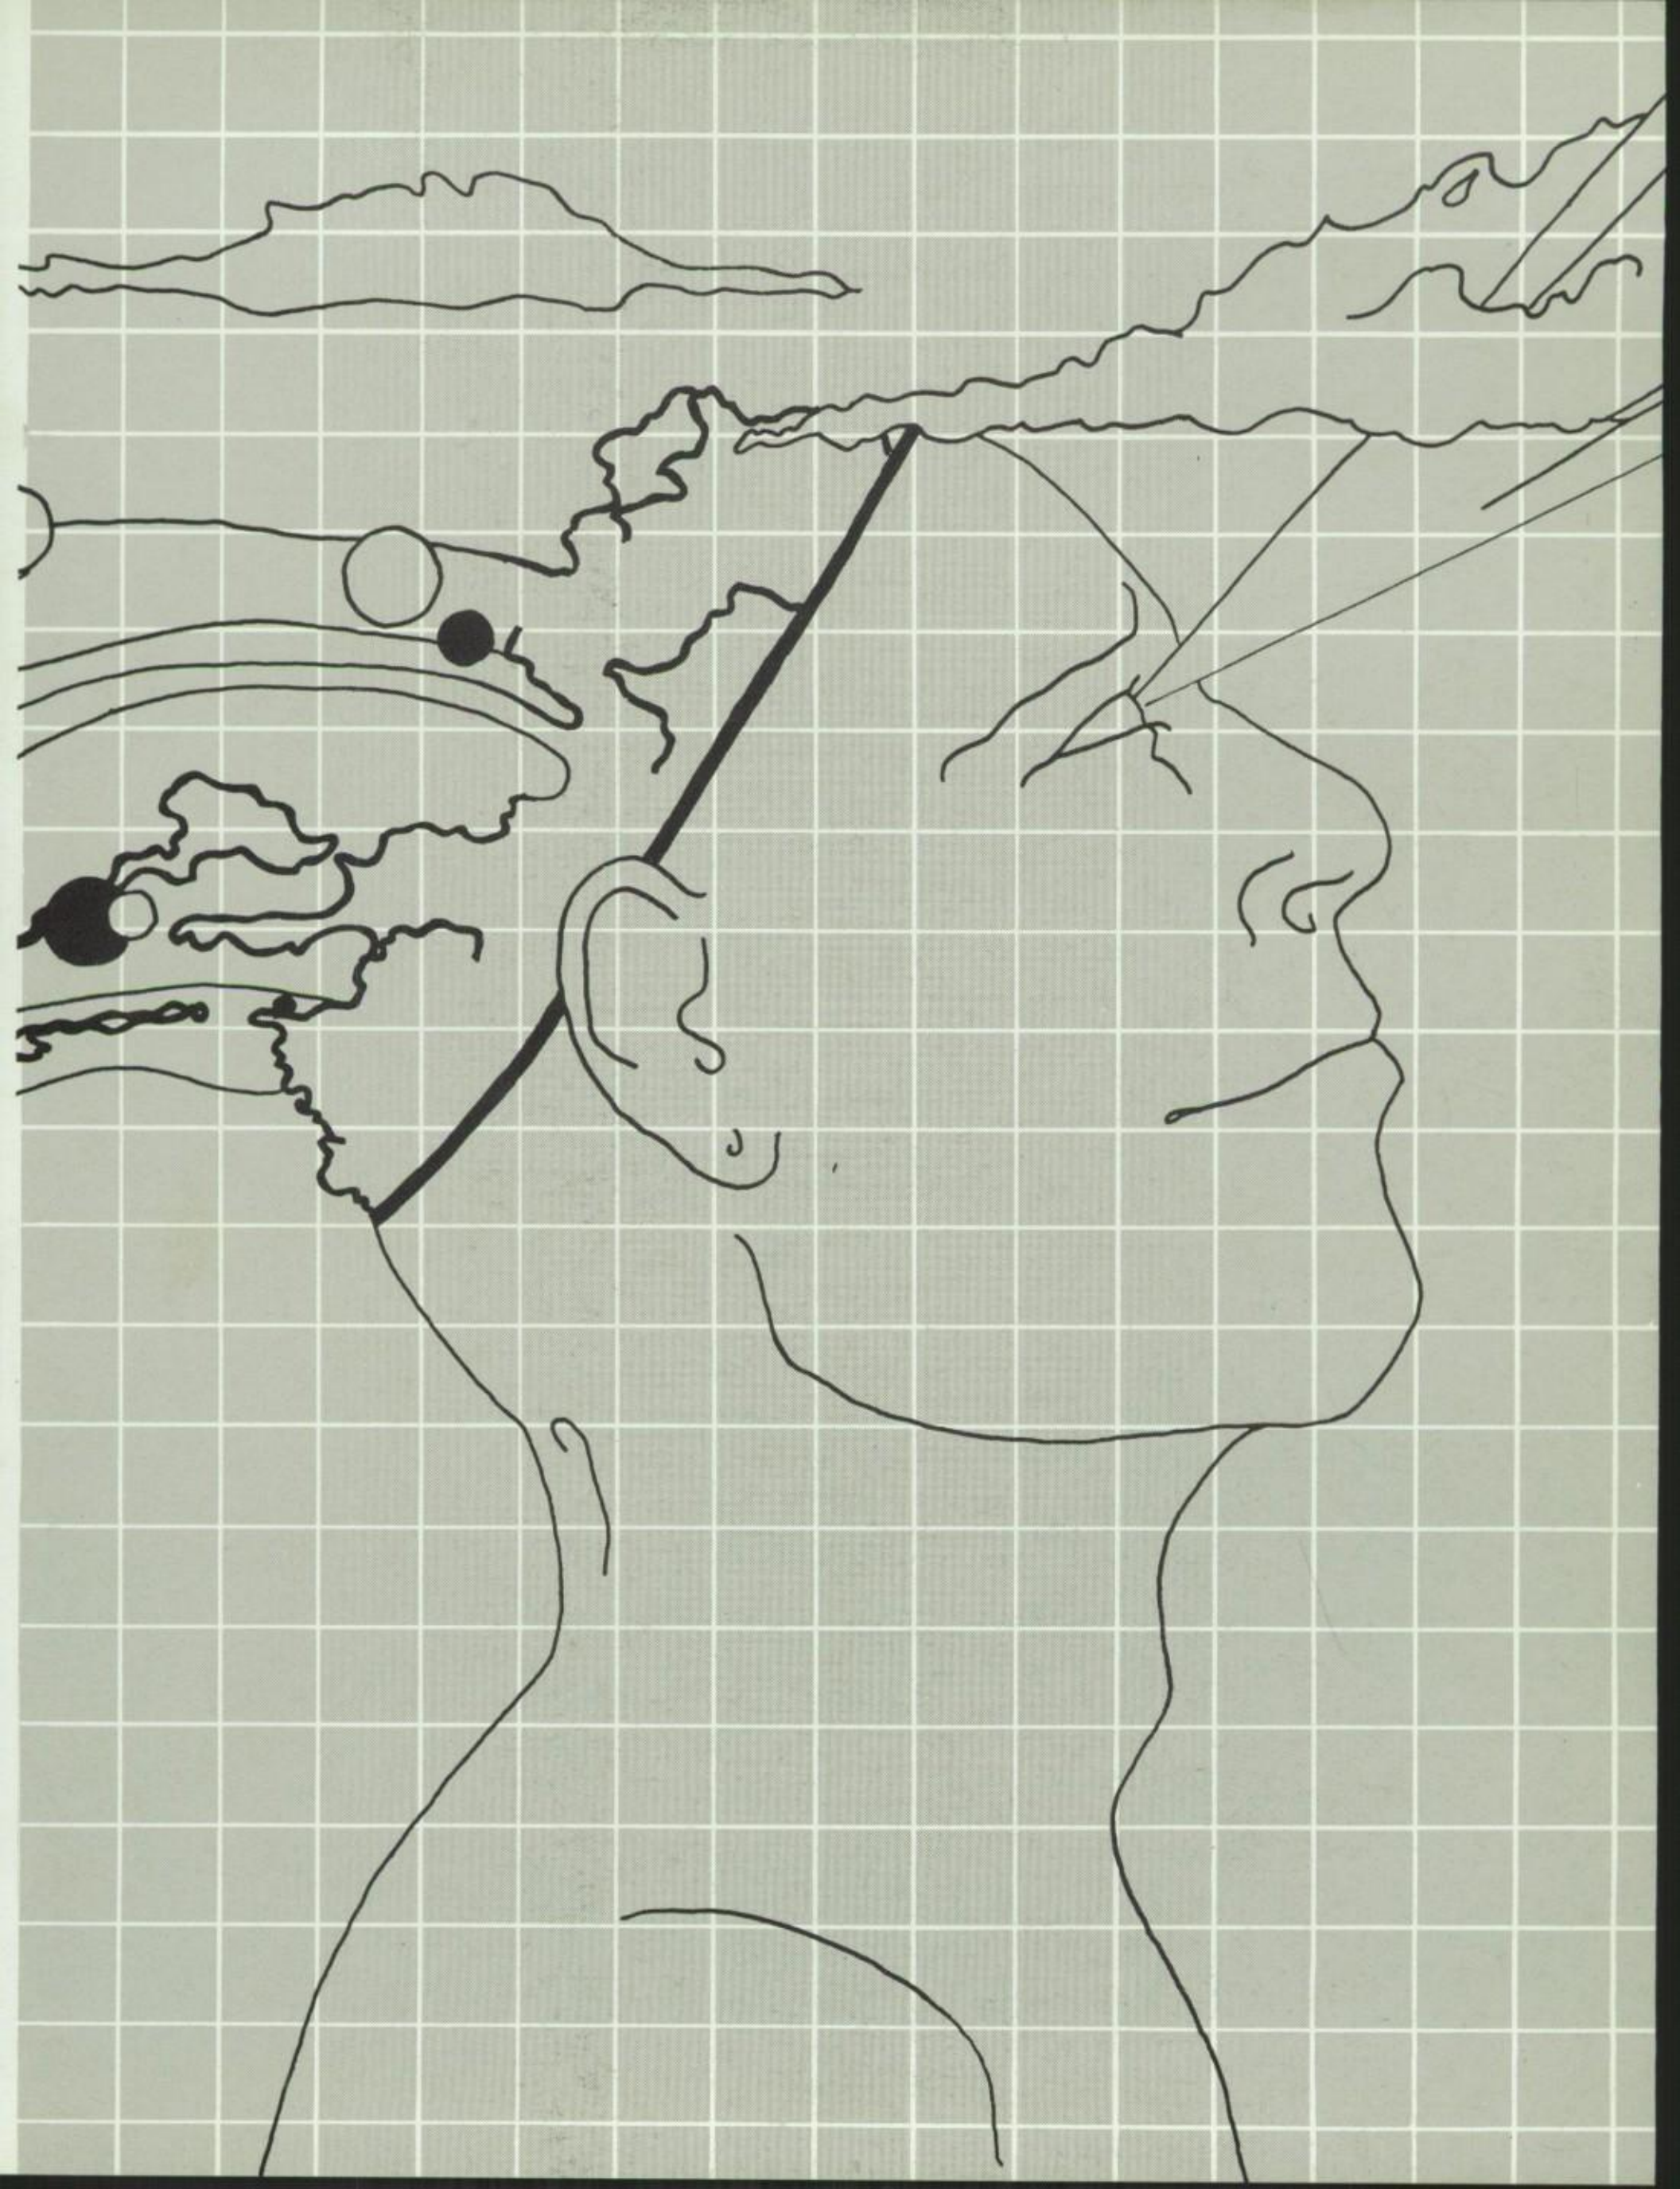

Friday night ... finally, but what to do? Thursday was payday and Mom was in a good mood, so money wasn't a problem. Decisions, decisions ... Corona being the great metropolitan center that it always has been and teeming with exotic night life, the old skating rituals were still popular with Yvette Baraya and Maria Serrato. David Drysol and the El Cerrito locals always could smell out or make a good party while Sylvia Reynoso and friends participated in shopping maneuvers. As exciting as skating and shopping were, and maybe even parties, movies seemed to be at the top of the big city entertainment scene. Right up there with Michael Jackson's Victory Tour. With the onslaught of "Terminator", and the high tech killing machine from the future, many students such as Tim Goldston and Marc Flint found new meaning in life. To the Sarah Connors of the world-watch out ...

ADMINISTRATION, COUNSELORS, LIBRARIAN

The Administration were those friendly people who could be seen hurrying here and there, and guarding the gates at lunch with the security (they were the ones with the neck tie.) With the formation of the assertive discipline program, many more students found themselves joining Sal Gonzales in afternoon detention. And then there was the time Kari Pischke begged to be sent ... and if they failed to show, they, like Marci Espinoza found themselves meeting Mr. DiPaolo and cleaning the parking lot and ivy on Saturday morning; but good ol' Mr. Cash is a likeable sort. Not only did the counselors 'help' us with our semester programs, but administered the senior's CAP tests, helped with college applications and choices, and found scholarship and grant information for many seniors like Marc Flint and Bill Easter. Mrs. Klarr our gracious librarian was always willing, if not eager, to help us with research for our term papers. Photo 1: Ass't Principals-Mr. DiPaolo and Mrs. Naylor. 2. SPORTS

Every year sophomore students look forward to being in a state requirements class. Just as thrilled to be one step closer to receiving their drivers licences or permits. This year many students had different points of view about the class, for example, when Staci Vadness was asked to read a three page report aloud to the class she would have given anything to be somewhere else. Or how about the time when John Palmieri pestered the substitute until he was sent to sit outside in the rain. Or, all the times that Carole Breslin and Amy Willis would come to class late with a Pepsi in one hand and no working materials in the other. Cynthia Vasquez, Belinda Hurtado, Bobby Hale, and Paco Pina always enjoyed sitting in one little corner of the class which they could call their own. Whenever there was a substitute you could always count on John Viagress to be the one causing all the trouble by taking the phone off the hook and tossing around the trash cans until the period was over. A number of students claim the drivers education is too much work and puts pressure on them, which they say makes the whole school day unbearable. However as much as they may complain they all know that it's best in the long run and worth every minute of time it has been given. Meanwhile when some students are in State Requirements the other half are in Social Studies. Where they learn about the science of man in relation to distribution, origin, classification, and relationship of races, physical character, environmental and social relations.

The 1984 Homecoming skits were filled with enthusiasm and spirit as the numerous clubs presented their candidates for court. The skits which took place at snacktime under the theme "Memories in Motion" involved such students as Beverly Turk doing her best to learn how to break-dance, Tina VandeBrake portraying Mrs. Cutter, and who could forget Cameron Daniels as a clumsy caveman playing football. After three days of colorful and entertaining skits the nominees for the 1984 Homecoming Court included: Sandy Angullo sponsored by Volleyball; Cyndi Barnes - Choir; Roxanne Best - Softball; Robin Cusic - Letterman's Club; Lisa Dualan - Coronettes; Lorena Espinoza - Los Amigos; Kim Freeman - Leadership; Brenda Hamor - Drama Club; Tina Holland - Dance Club; Rebecca Hugli - Madrigals; Lisa Jeeves - Football Club; Cathy Kennedy - Soccer Club; Minchelle Manire - Ski Club; Chris Romero - Marching Band; Brenden Snyder - Cross Country; Michelle Talley - Boy's Basketball; Sandy Thompson - Pep Squad; Lynn Waddell - Baseball; and Lisa Williams - GAA.

Friday the student body watched anxiously as the court was announced at snack. Everytime George Davis or David Beshires let loose a batch of brightly colored balloons and watched them drift upward another name was revealed to the crowd of cheering students. By the time the snack bell rang the 84' court consisted of: Roxanne Best, Kim Freeman, Brenda Hamor, Cathy Kennedy, Michelle Talley, Sandy Thompson, and Lisa Williams.

The following week was set aside for the traditional dress-up days. Monday was red and gold day and everywhere students were dressed in school colors. At lunchtime we all watched as the court donned in plastic trash bags were bombarded with pies thrown (smashed) by students such as Robert Cotto. The next day, which was nerd day, found Damon Baldiviez with greased hair and polyester pants, and Jennifer Cowan looking like a bag lady. At lunch Kim Freeman brought top dollar at the slave auction by being sold for $15.75, not far behind were Roxanne Best and Cathy Kennedy who went for $15.00 each. On occupation day we saw Rayanne Furnish as a pregnant housewife, Danielle Bourdon playing major league baseball, and Mike Pensko as a soldier. At lunch we were delighted as Cathy Kennedy repeatedly was dunked by David Beshires and Brenda Hamor who was illegally dunked as no one could hit the lever with the ball. As Thursday rolled around we found that the student body had decisively increased in size, as 2000 pound day found little Suzy Honeter suddenly not too little anymore. Friday was stuffed animal day and the campus was invaded by brightly colored teddybears, Garfields, and ET's. Sizes ranged from Cindy Radich's medium sized Dumbo to Brenda Hamor's giant stuffed dog. On Friday at 3:00 pm the CHS color guard and marching band started off the Homecoming parade down sixth street. They were followed by the grand marshal - Mr. Dan Baughman, Corona High's very own art teacher. Next came the class floats and the local junior high bands. The senior float featured Noelle Jennings as a school teacher in front of a little red school house. The junior float represented decades past with Jana Thacker as a hippie from the 60's. Sophomore class officers rode on their entry of an early Corona High classroom. A colorful group of clowns, led by Cyndy Barnes danced along the parade route and everyone cheered as Kevin and Melvin Bunkley showed their break dancing talents. Of course the main attraction was the Homecoming court and last year's queen, Christy Weakley. Photo 1: Joanne Davider 2. Tony Gonzalez 3. Noelle Jennings 4. Becky Hugi 5. Jana Thacker 6. AHHH RIGHT

The Homecoming football game was destined to be the game to remember. With the coaching of Coach Robles and his staff the Panthers were able to shut out Moreno Valley, with a score of 21-0. Friday nights win was the first end of two losing streaks for Corona, as our team won their first league game of the season and also the first win at Homecoming in twelve years. As the second quarter of the game came to an end everyone watched excitedly as the marching band and Coronettes came on the field for the halftime show and the announcement of the queen. Anticipation rose as the court, escorted by the varsity cross country, were escorted under an arch of flags to meet their fathers, and the announcement of Queen. We all held our breath as the moment arrived, drums rolled, and we knew Kim Freeman was Homecoming Queen 1984. Following the game the Homecoming dance, sponsored by the ASB was held in the gym. Nat Tucker and his committee did an outstanding job transforming the gym into a night of the 50's complete with balloons and streamers amid dancing couples and sparkling glitter. Memories in Motion

Every year students in the science classes look forward to learning astonishing facts and doing exciting experiments. One student, senior Lisa Nicoletti will always remember dissecting a pregnant frog in her Biology 2 class. Nicole Rebul and her classmates looked forward to making Newton's food runs in Biology ... to say nothing of his side-stories. Another student, Scott Reis, main problem in physics, was just staying awake after working late. Jack Kelty and Tom Bloomfield were two of the many students involved in an far out experiment in Mr. Engle's physics class. They had a hair-raising experience (literally) when they put their hands on a electric generator. Even with all the homework, bookwork, quizzes and finals, science students discovered the achievements of past scientists. And maybe even someday a Corona alumni will become a Nobel prize winner ... it could happen. Photo 1: Mr. Engle 2. Mr. Wilkerson- "Do not do that again ..."

HALLOWEEN

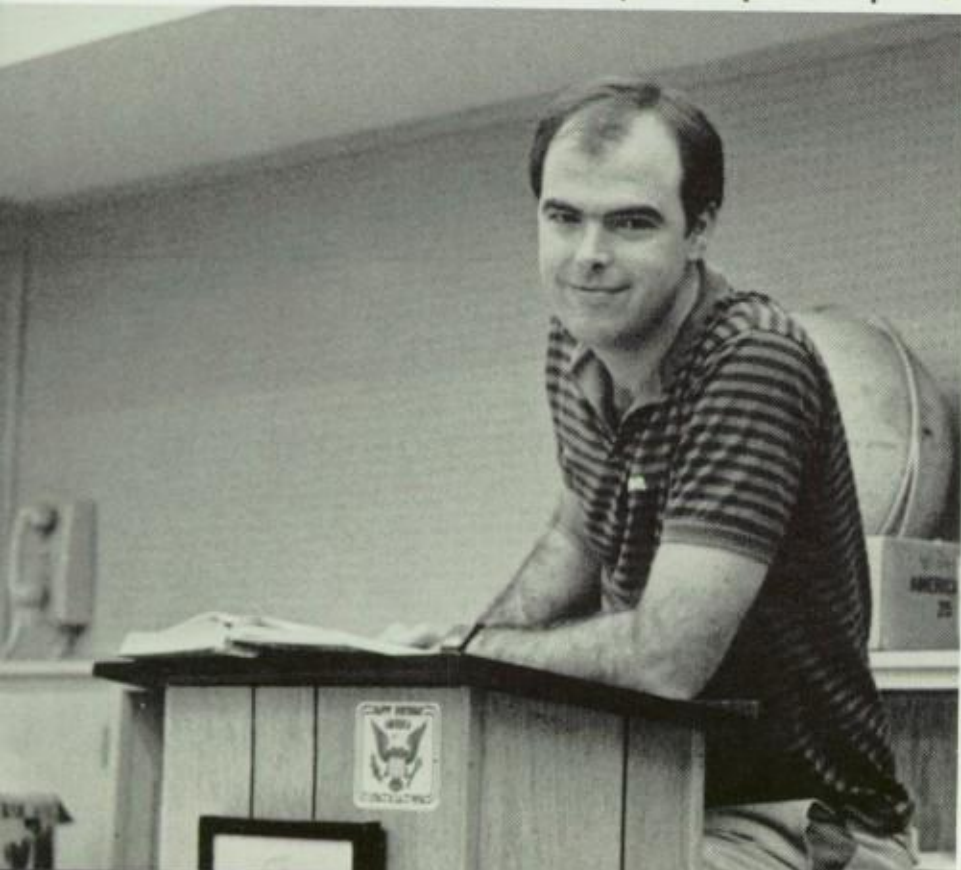

Halloween gave us a chance to let our imaginations run a little wild as monkeys, pirates, witches (Danielle Bourdon), and clowns like Nancy Cross and even others who didn't dress up. The ASB sponsored a haunted house in the Star Room the night before the magic day for the community and a costume contest during snack, treated the faculty and amused the campus with various games during snack. Many students hosted or attended private parties that night, some like Loan Engasser, Manuel Lua, and Teresa Gutierrez went to LA for a good time. Others stayed home to watch TV and help the folks pass out goodies to the neighborhood kids, Karen Bassett, Bob Van Voohees and Noelle Cook. There was also the almost month long celebration at Knott's Berry Farm which has become a favorite with many students. Photo 1: Missy Skibel, Sherry Manire. 2. Gina Stabile, Lisa Williams. 3. LION IN WINTER

"Lion in Winter" was the first drama production of the year at Corona High. Directed by Sue Rhinehart, "Lion in Winter" set new standards of excellence for the performing arts here. The costumes, designed and constructed by Rhinehart, were highly detailed in beautiful violets, rich reds, warm browns, and soft fur. The cast, consisting of eight actors playing seven parts, moved dramatically through the set of elevated stages and effective lighting. Roger Ayers and Robert Perkins switched off playing the part of Henry II of England and Phillip II of France. Cynthia Barnes was the French Princess Alais Capet, while Rachel Ann Fairchild portrayed bumbling Prince John. David Burroughs was Geoffrey, Duke of Brittany, and Richard the Lionheart was played by Stephen Sweeney. The part of Eleanor of Aquitaine, Queen of England was shared by Helen Whatley and Christine Perkins. Special mention must be given to everyone involved with the production, makeup, lighting, set construction, and special effects.

Endless summer practices, second period spent up on the football field, giving up weekends, and Tuesday nights. Practices were all part of getting together and performing the perfect field show. The CHS band and Coronettes, under the direction of Drum major Cathy McCoy, were very busy in '84', performing in the many field shows and competitions. All of the hard work and hearing the same songs over and over again really paid off everytime the band stepped onto the field. The band and Coronettes performed their halftime shows to the songs "Gaucho", "Big Spender", "Late in the Evening", which featured a saxophone quintet including Cathy McCoy, Laurie Werner, Andrea Huneke, Monica Wells, and Julie Sepulveda; and "If", in which Peter Lawes performed a magnificent trumpet solo. As they marched off the field after each performance the satisfied smiles told everyone that the practice had paid off. Photo 1: Monica Wolls, Laurie Werner, Julie Sepulveda. 2. Shirley Valiquette 3. DECATHLON

Under the coaching of Mrs. Rubin, Mr. Engle, and Mr. Phillips the students which participated in the County Academic Decathlon practice for seven weeks. The team consisted of Jana Thacker, Sally Timlin, Charla Papas, Rob Perkins, and John Duino. They put in countless hours after school to prepare for the November 17th competition. When the day arrived the decatheletes were off to Riverside Poly. The competition began at 8:00 a.m., with the first of ten exams, they were speech, interview, essay, language, and literature, science, mathematics, social studies, economics, and fine arts, and a super quiz on the future. Each individual earned at least one medal, with a total of nine medals for the team. The medals were gold for first place, silver for second and bronze for third. Individually Jana Thacker came in second for speech in her division, Sally Timlin scored third in speech, Charla Papas second in her speech division and third in speech overall; John Duino took first place in his math division and third in the overall math; and Rob Perkins finished with a second place in science with a third for his essay. After the team banquet, the Corona High medalists returned home to conclude a long and grueling day. Photo 1: Jana Thacker, Charla Papas, Rob Perkins, John Duino, and Sally Timlin.

The pep squad brought a whole new brand of spirit to the campus; new color, new uniforms and new sponsors. Under the leadership of song-Sandy Thompson the squad presented Friday rallies on the east quad and performed at athletic events. Sherry Tucker led the varsity cheers and Trinia Hagaman the all sophomore junior varsity. Alllll Riiiiighhht became the battle cry. Individual schedules became hectic as basketball games materialized and weekly performances more than doubled. Keeping track of fund raisers and who should be where kept sponsor Mrs. Omar busy and Mrs. Davis was a great help with the dance routines and rally programs. PEP SQUAD

GIRL'S TENNIS

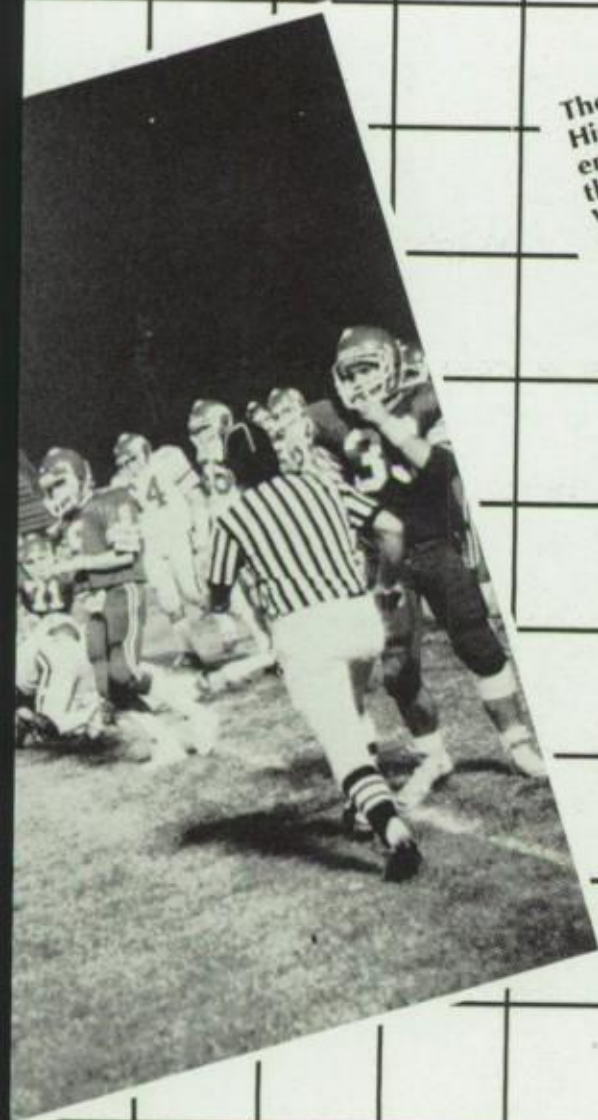

Fielding a small, but strong team, Coach Osterkamp and the Panthers had an impressive season. Led by senior Julie Rice-number one singles, Corona beat cross-town Norco at each meeting, showing strength in both doubles and singles competition. Number one doubles Susan Radloff and Michelle Robinson had good outings against North and were backed by Meg Carbonell and Pam Atwood. Off a bit slow at first, junior Wendy Williams had an excellent season in singles competition as did rookie Stephanie Upton. Rice advanced to CIF in league finals and playing on the Hemet courts placed third in her division, ending a most impressive high school career. At the season's end-gathering Coach Osterkamp awarded letters to her netters and heralded Rice as Most Valuable; Upton-Rookies of the Year; Robinson-Coaches Award; and sophomore Roseland Werner-Most Improved. Team Photo (l-r): Julie Rice, Wendy Williams, Stephanie Upton, Susan Radloff, Michelle Robinson, Megan Carbonell, Lan Nguyen, Dawn Blysm, Roseland Werner, Rosanne Rivera, Helen Rekosicwicz, Jeanne Lane, Angela Nicoletti, Pam Atwood.

The 1984 football team started the pre-season play with an apparent win over Canyon High School, but it would be nullified later because of an illegible player. The season ended and left the Panthers of Corona in last place with a 1-9 record. The highlight of the season came on October 12th during the homecoming game against Moreno Valley. From the beginning of the game, Corona was on the attack. They first scored in the first quarter when Robert Cotto passed to Bobby Arellano for a touchdown. The Panthers went on to score twice more, one of the for a touchdown. The Panthers went on to score twice more. One of the most disappointing games of the season came when Corona played North of Riverside at UCR. On the first run from scrimmage, Robert Cotto injured his ankle, and would miss two more games. In the last minute of the game Corona hopes of a win fell through when a two-point conversion was nullified because of a penalty. It was a sorrowful sight to see the team members heartbroken, depressed, and crying while holding hands on their way to the bus. Corona was up again when it was time to play the Cougars at Norco, but with no avail, since the Panthers lost 13-0. Corona lost the remainder of their games on the 1984 season. When the banquet came around the awards were handed out to the players and the winners were as follows: Junior Varsity-Defensive Back of the Year, Kirk Harkey-Most Improved Player, Shawn Gogerty-Mr. Hustle, Guillermo Najar-Defensive Line-man of the Year, Cameron Daniels-Mr. Hustle, Guillermo Najar-Defensive Line-man of the Year, David Drysol and Robert Cotto-Honorary Captains, Nat Tucker, David Drysol, Year, David Drysol and Robert Cotto-Honorary Captains, Nat Tucker, Cotto, David Drysol, of the Year and Most Valuable. X-COUNTRY

"OK ... we can have a lousy season ... a winning season ... or an excellent season ..." those were Coach Newton's words the day after the first meet against Arlington, and with renewed determination the season became excellent, both as a team and in individual reward and accomplishment. Determination in Sophomore Dale Brogan's sheer want to finish despite injury, Shane Lindsey's time improvement, and Rusty Schoenherr's capabilities to find strength and power in the last leagues race after race. From Newton's proclamation things only showed improvement. We whipped out Ramona on their course and North at home, did well individually at the invitational; winning the team medals at Arlington. We came back strong on Norco's (after last year) barren hills to win the JV's and boy's races. As the league competition neared its climax we hosted Perris for a charge meet. The girls were great, winning by one point with outstanding performances by both Marena Figueroa and Deneen Long. Mark Newberry, Lindsey and Mike Geiser showed what strength the Panthers were made of as did Glen Christy, Schoenherr, Horacio Juarez and Doug Barnes. The varsity boys were well back at two miles and at that point they came forward to win with Ken Woodall breaking the course record at 17:44. The last meet of the season found us tied for the league championship with Hemet and on their home course. The JV's won, (losing only one meet in the last eleven seasons), the girls were strong with good runs by Pam Randel and Renee Thompson. Then it came to the varsity boys with the trophy still at stake. Still back at two miles, things looked grim ... but then came rushes by Woodall and Juarez ... points were still tied as Schoenherr was pushing for fifth with his Hemet opponent, when from the course came Jeff Figueroa to overtake them both; Schoenherr found his power to take the Hemet man, we had fifth and sixth and the Championship. Juarez, Woodall, Schoenherr, Brad Glassick, Jeff Figueroa, Christy, Barnes, Lindsey and Newberry advanced to CIF competition to place fifth. All league honors went to senior Ken Woodall, whose enthusiasm and leadership kept the Panthers a strong team unit. At the annual banquet-roast ... honors went to Barnes, Alex Serrato, Marena Figueroa and Long-500 mile medals. Coach Omar awarded Mike Geiser-Most Inspirational; Most Valuable JV-Lindsey, Girls Varsity-Long, Boys-Juarez. Minute Awards went to Long, Marena Figueroa, Christy, Juarez, Barnes, and Woodall. Team Captains-Varsity Boys-Woodall, Girls-Marena Figueroa, JV-Geiser; Jeff Figueroa and Pam Randel recieved Most Improved honors, as Coach Newton bestowed the Coache's Award on junior Doug Barnes. In addition three varsity runners were chosen to represent the United States in a far east tour, as was Coach Newton. Traveling to Korea and Singapore were Glen Christy, Ken Woodall and Jeff Figueroa. VOLLEYBALL

Corona High Volleyball had a rebuilding year in 1984 with only Roxanne Best returning to the varsity squad. An influx of sophomore talent led the Panthers to a respectable 7-9 season and fifth place finish in the Ivy League. Co-Captain Best led the team with 95 percent serving average and 119 points. She was selected First Team All-Ivy League and was voted Most Valuable Player by her teammates. Co-captain Keri Starr, a junior, was named Honorable Mention All-Ivy League and was voted Most Improved. She served for 114 points, including 22 aces. Junior Kellie Greene was also named to the Honorable Mention All-Ivy League for her intimidating serves. Sophomores Denise Wilson and Kristie Young assumed the demanding roles of setter. Their rapid improvement led to the success of outstanding spikers Best, Starr, Greene, and Amy Johnson. Johnson led the Panthers' serve reception, while Meghan Sjurson and Lisa Best led the determined defense. Susan Stjernquist and Sandy Angulo contributed to the rapid improvement of the team with their powerful serves and leadership. The Panthers look forward to a powerful season in 1985 with almost the entire squad returning! Groups

After a successful trip last year, fall membership boomed to new heights, and things looked good to co-sponsors, Ms. Guillen and Mr. Woodward. Norman club activities; such as homecoming participation went by without a hitch. Danny Bassett was elected to pound the gavel ... things were going great ... but then the Christmas trip got canceled ... members hopes of wild excursions slowly began to fade ... until spring break when they once again boarded the shiny buses, first class of course, for the Salt Lake ranges and a week of serious skiing and party. Photo, front 1-r: Tina Woodworth, Lucy Lane, Donna Walter, Irma Reynoso, Michelle Manire, Jennifer Burdette, Noelle Cook, Leslee Helms, April Casada, Vicki Zoller, Mr. Woodward, Ms. Guillen. SKI CLUB

Under the able sponsorship of Senor Nino the Mecha Club gave its membership a list of activities ranging from service projects and fund raisers to social. Martha Villicana was elected president and headed the Christmas holiday party for the head-start pre-schoolers at the local YMCA. Anna Carrida backed Villicana in the VP spot while Rosa Serrato kept the club minutes intact. Rosanna Rivera fulfilled the treasurer duties. After several successful candy sales and fund raisers the group sponsored the campus Cinco De Mayo festivities and treated the faculty to an outstanding Mexican breakfast. To close the year on a fun level, Mecha had a Disneyland trip. Photo 1-r: Mr. Nino, Laura Gonzalez, Ezzie Villicana, Rosanne Rivera, Martha Villicana. MECHA

Los Amigos members enjoyed another year of activities. Sponsoring a homecoming queen candidate for the first time, in October, helped begin the year with a unified effort as the group came forth with a delightful skit and backing for their queen. President Lorena Espinoza kept the groups meetings moving along and helped Ms. Kerr, sponsor, encourage the candy sale for the club's volleyball tournament in the spring. Irma Espinoza served as secretary-treasurer for the growing group as new students found close friendship within the club. Pictures, pictures, deadlines and more pictures kept the varied staff constantly in motion. Steve Marez's camera was constantly clicking to record the year in pictures, he was joined by Mikel Baughman during football. Sheri Engstrom edited the homecoming section and served in every never-fail capacity throughout the year. Brendan Snyder and Tammy Sharak served on staff during the first semester, as Victor Serrato, Lisa Nicoletti and Lori Gillmaster made their final spring deadlines; with Sophia Navarro proclaiming "I didn't know all this had to be done." Olivia Reynoso's good humor and persistence kept Baughman assured deadlines could be met. However, Marc Flint was never too sure ... but usually, somehow ... came through. YEARBOOK

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Even before school started the executive council started planning for the on-coming school year. They met for two days at Mrs. Hadcox's to get to know each other and plan the years activities and really finalize what would become a very successful Homecoming. As a group, they worked closely together under Nat Tuckers' leadership to pull off an endless list of Wednesday snack activities, the Christmas canned food drive and door decorating contest, the MDA dance; which raised over $4,000.00, the Halloween haunted house and daytime activities, the Mock Trial competition, Spirit Week and King activities, the Campus Sweetheart Dance, the Blood Drive, and the all-school sports assemblies. The senior class officers worked with Mr. DiPaolo to help plan graduation, the senior dinner dance and other graduation activities, while the juniors pulled off another successful prom. The sophomore class officers were in charge of the homecoming float, several fund raisers and the annual Baccalaureate reception. FFA

Students involved in the Future Farmer's of America worked and developed an atmosphere at the ag. lab similiar to that of an actual working farm. The lab itself is located on campus, where members raised pigs and lambs and developed feeding programs and horticulture skills. Members such as Greg Morrison, Mike Althes, Joe Simmons, Shawn Ferguson and Kim Kastleman participated in various local and sectional project competitions. Donna Mance and Michelle Demora represented the chapter at regional meetings and helped elect the state FFA officers. Under the advisorship of Mrs. Rubin a Speech Club reappeared on campus after many years of absence. The club gave it's membership the opportunity to learn the fine art of debate and public speaking. With no fore runners members bravely crossed each horizon, or podium as they came. Members participated in the V.F.W. Speech contest, where Rob Perkins came away the winner. Theresa Goldston impressed the judges to win the local competition in the Lion's Club competition at mid-year, to begin an active year of serious competition. SPEECH

CLUB

The California Scholarship Federation demands that its membership maintain a 3.5 GPA or better. On campus Mr. Phillips served as sponsor. Members worked at the basketball concession stands as a club fund raiser and enjoyed their annual trip to Disneyland. During the senior awards assembly the graduating members receive their gold pin for their academic achievements during high school. Photo-Row 1 l-r: LeeAnn Nett, Marcie Beasley, Debbie Gutierrez. The Drafters were a group of students with a interest in design and drafting techniques. Many students during the year became involved, such as David McGlocklin, Eric Walker and Eric Womble, with designing products which could be produced through computerized machinery. The excitement of Mr. Doerr and Mr. List kept the interest rampant. Members participated in the Riverside County Industrial Education Expo, the Indio fair and the California State Fair competitions. BANDS

Another busy year ... under the baton of Mr. Denson, students in the instrumental music program put in long hours of practice and performance. Beginning in early fall the marching band performed during halftimes at the home football games, school assemblies, and rallies. Cathy McCoy was head drum major with Daniel Marmolejo, assistant. Drums were under the student leadership of Chris Romero. Competition came first in the form of field shows, performing at Chaffey in October the band placed third, at Eisenhower the percussion section won second place honors. Parade competition and participation began with the Homecoming parade and picked up again with the Huntington Park Christmas Parade and Disneyland performances. The Concert Band presented their traditional holiday concert in December and in spring found themselves with a long list of competition and concert dates. The Jazz group joined the concert band in the annual spring concert and participated in the Cal Poly Pomona Jazz Festival, the Arlington Concert Festival, Fullerton Jazz and Corona Jazz Festivals. After collecting tons of newspapers and cans, rocking for hours in the rock-a-thon, the bands had a successful concert tour in the spring through Arizona. With Rusty Schoenherr as president the Soccer Club sponsored Cathy Kennedy for Homecoming Court. Their main purpose was to raise funds to help support the boys' soccer program on campus. Their first project was a snail jail sale followed by the cabbage patch raffle, and Coach Hughes' red and gold cap sale. Schoenherr was backed by Matt Gavin-VP and Dan Archuletta as treasurer. SOCCER CLUB

GAA

The Girls Athletic Association is made up of all girls involved in athletics. With Chris Romero as president the group sponsored their annual holiday formal dance. The girl ask boy affair raised an impressive amount of funds for the purchase of equipment for the womens' athletic program. Mr. Pentor served as the groups able sponsor with Marilyn Hayes as VP, Lisa Miller-secretary and Julie Vitale as treasurer. Photo l-r: President Chris Romero is joined by Julie Vitale, Lisa Miller, Marilyn Hayes and MaryAnn Mejia.

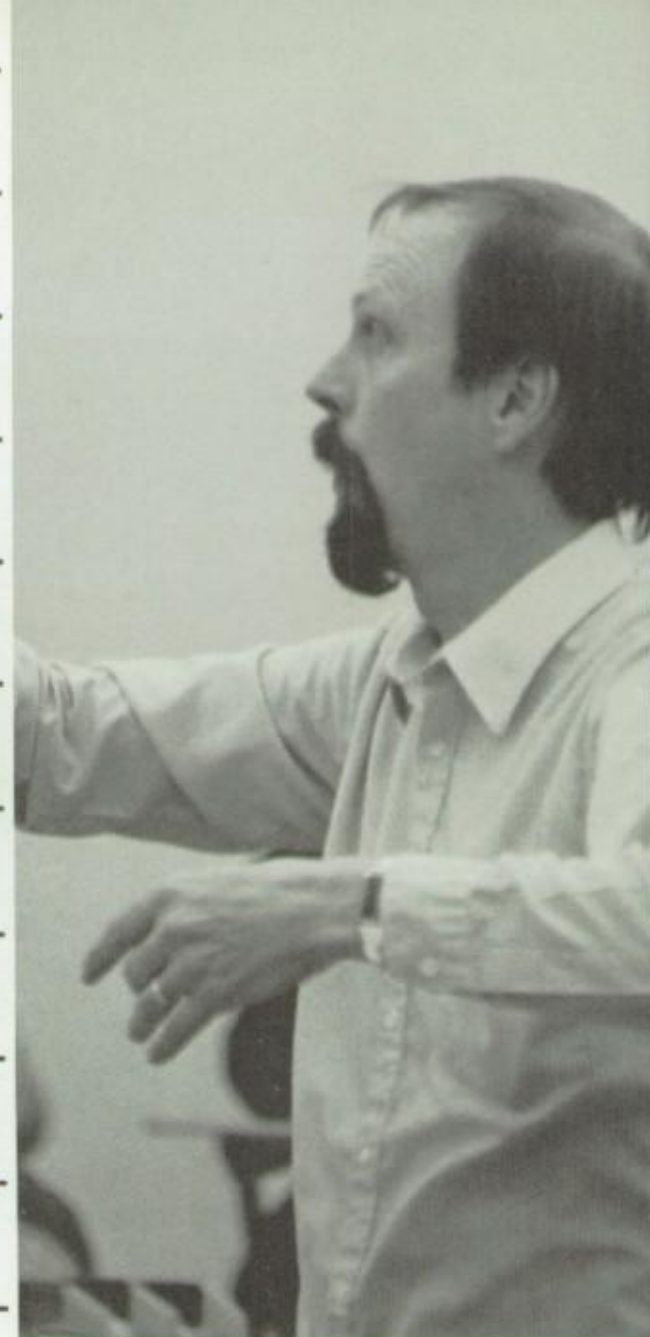

AEROBICS

Sponsored by Ms. Davis, the Aerobic Club joined the club roster. Made up mostly of students from the aerobic P.E. classes on campus, students learned new routines for fitness and coreographed many others. Members performed at school assemblies, presenting the original dance routines. During the year members raised enough money to purchase a new stereo for the aerobics classes and organization. LETTERMEN

— After sponsoring a Homecoming queen candidate, members settled into raising funds for the purchase of new equipment and other materials to support athletics at Corona High. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Newton meetings were never what one might call dull. Nat Tucker served as the groups president, Robert Cotto-vice president; Richard Foley-secretary; and David Beshirs-treasurer. VOCAL

The Corona High School Choir and Madrigals were among most active and dedicated groups on campus. Dedicated to music, the group, and the performance. The vocal music department was comprised of the concert choir, madrigal singers, a barber shop quartet and a Sweet Adelines group. They presented outstanding performances at the annual Christmas and spring concerts. The Madrigals performed at the Lions' Club, Hungry Tiger, and the public library during the holiday season and with the choir had a busy spring competition schedule.

CORONETTES

The 85' year brought the Coronettes some new changes. Along with the rifles, headed by Noelle Cook, and tall flags, captain-Katie Hilditch, a short flag squad was added with Shawna Wiggs acting as captain. The Coronettes, under the advisorship of Mrs. Pat Cutter, performed at numerous school events, giving impressive performances at football and basketball half-times and at snack-time rallies. The color guard performed in many field show competitions in the fall; including Redlands, Chaffey, and Eisenhower, in which the rifles brought home a first place. Coronas' Coronettes consisted of twentyeight girls who practiced long and hard to achieve the awards and recognition that they did. They participated in many parades throughout the year, ranging from the Fourth of July parade, to the Saint Patricks' day celebration in mid-March. In January the Coronettes and band paraded at Disneyland and gave an impressive field show performance on America Sings Stage to a enthusiastic audience. After football season indoor competitions began. New neo uniforms and a new colorguard routine were introduced and were an instant success. Indoor competitions held at Huntington Beach, Claremont, Indio, and Garden Grove brought numerous first and second place trophies. The performance at Claremont was outstanding, so, that they were invited to perform for opening day at Dodger stadium. The most exciting event for all the Coronettes was most definately when they performed in the Miss Drill Team USA Competition in Los Angeles. The color guard gave it their all and walked away with a second, clearly the most exciting news came after the awards ceremony when the Corona High colorguard was invited to compete in the Miss Drill Team International competition to be held in Tokyo, Japan in early July. For Mrs. Cutter, "This years team was dedicated, hard working girls who got along and worked well together . . . Thanks." A black and white photograph of a decorated Christmas tree. The tree is adorned with numerous ornaments, including stars, hearts, and a cross. Several gifts wrapped in patterned paper are placed at the base of the tree. The background is slightly blurred, showing an indoor setting.

During the Christmas season many students were involved in different activities. Pie baking, glass etching, and Christmas tree ornament making were just a few among the many. The students in Mrs. Darnell's sixth period class enjoyed baking their Christmas pies, especially Yvette Salgado and Ann Marie Calopinto who among other students had a quarter pie to themselves. In Mrs. Omar's ceramic classes many of her students contributed to her classroom Christmas tree by making ornaments to help adorn it. Don Costello was especially careful about who touched his ornaments. Glass etching was not only a required project in Mr. Baughman's class but a very popular one. Students like Anthony Marmolejo, Belinda Hurtado, and Snoopy Villaseñor thought of some real interesting ideas on how to work with their glass, or mirror. The campus' Mecha Club sponsored a trip to the Y.M.-C.A.'s headstart program. They furnished the kids with a really bright and happy afternoon which included candy and gifts among other things. This year's door decorating contest winner was Mrs. Omar's class with Mrs. Darnell's not too far behind.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT

On December 20th the Corona High Music Department held its annual Christmas Concert. The feeling of the holidays was in the air as the choir, jazz band, madrigals, and concert band performed a variety of holiday music and traditional caroles. The west side of the concert hall was packed with enthusiastic parents, alumni, and spectators in general. The first half of the performance was the time for the choir and madrigals, under the direction of Mr. Smith, to show their vocal talents, while the second belonged to the instrumental. The last selection performed proved to be a special treat, and was awarded a standing ovation. Photo 1: Choir and madrigals ready to perform. 2. Jazz band 3. The night of December 22 was to many students "A Night in Heaven." The traditional "girl ask guy" winter formal was sponsored by the GAA and held in the campus ballroom. The first formal dance of the year proved to be a big success as numerous couples arrived to enjoy an evening of dancing and picture taking. The beautifully decorated gym seemed to add to the excitement as did the music and videos. To the many couples who attended the evening was truly "A Night in Heaven." PHYSICAL EDUCATION

PUSHUPS... JUMPING JACKS... TRACK...

Softball, volleyball, swimming, and weights were just a few of the numerous activities offered to students in Physical Education. For juniors such as Lori Gillmaster and Terry Washburn PE was a good way to keep in shape, but for sophomores, Sylvia Reynoso and Yvette Barraza PE was a required but enjoyable class, a chance to unwind. When students picked classes during third quarter, indoor sports were the most popular because of the cold weather. But, when fourth quarter rolled around students preferred outdoor activities such as swimming and tennis. PE is a great way to stay in shape and to make new friends through team sports. Spirit Week '85' was a week filled with fun and excitement. It all started Monday morning when Lynette Bowden and Lisa Nicoletti wore their "Thompson Twins" concert t-shirts. At snack, amid cheers, the ASB announced the 1985 Spirit Court, consisting of: David Beshirs, Randy Clemens, Robert Cotto, Courtney Davis, Pablo Larez, Monte Pensko, and Nat Tucker. As the week went on the court was involved in numerous activities such as a tug-of-war, a mummy wrap, a three-legged race, and a hilarious relay race involving putting on various articles of clothing. Of course what would spirit week be without the famous dress-up days, from 501's to wierd clothes to ski bunnies and ski buffs a large number of students participated in the dress-up activities of spirit week. Karen Bassett showed her school spirit by wearing her 501's and the Coronettes really got into it on weird clothes day as they almost blinded the entire student body with their shocking bright uniforms. Friday proved to be the most exciting day of the week as the student body voted for Spirit King, at half-time the court was presented to an enthusiastic audience, and amid waving flags and flashing rifles, Courtney Davis was crowned Corona High's 1985 Spirit King.

Rainmaker, the second of three drama productions was equal in quality to the first. Set in the West, at time not so long ago, the production dealt with a man named "Bill Starbuck," played by Scott Ozenne; trying to relieve the people and land of a great drought with a drum, some white paint and a wagon to make rain. The play was centered around the Curry family which consisted of "H.C." portrayed by Anthony Deschenes; "Noah" played by James Barnes, "Jim" by Mitch Shockley, and Stephanie Burton and Jennifer Hiestand traded off portraying "Lizzie Curry", they also played "Mrs. Thomas." David Burroughs portrayed "File" the deputy sheriff who has to tell the Curry family that Starbuck is a con-man and they are paying him $100 for nothing, since he probably will not make any rain. As the story goes Starbuck does come through with his miracle and the drought is over as the play closes. Congratulations go out to the director-Sue Rhinehart and assistant Barbra Learning, the Tech Masters; Julie Kack, Barbra Learning, Cynthia Barnes, Ezzie Villanueva, Brian Smith, Michael Burroughs, and Valerie Hiestand; and to those who constructed the set: Karen Kramer, Ileen Gilbert, Cindy Soliday, Bill Herder, Mike Rose, Beverly Turk, and the American Players. BLOOD

Sponsored by the San Bernardino-Riverside County Blood Bank, students, faculty and staff gave a little of themselves ... in hope that it might help someone else. "Will it hurt ... do I have to." was Diana Burton's main concern when it came to the final hour. While Olivia Reynoso, who was giving it up for the first time "There was nothing to it." In a race with Norco High we collected 151 units for the area blood bank. Photo 1: Marisela Castillo 2. Janet Breslin and Susan Schriener 3. Stuart Crosby, Bill Simons 4. Carla Papas 5. NDA DANCE

For twelve long hours on Friday, Feb. 1st, about 150 students raised $4,300. to benefit victims of muscular dystrophy. The ASB sponsored event was chaired by Randy Clemens, Shannon Dill, and David Beshirs, arranging for soft drinks, hamburgers and music turned out to be a monumental effort. An average of 55 students danced from noon to midnight, among them were Karen Bassett, Robin Cassic, and Lynn Waddell. Everyone got pretty tired ... but it really was a lot of fun ... because it was worth it.

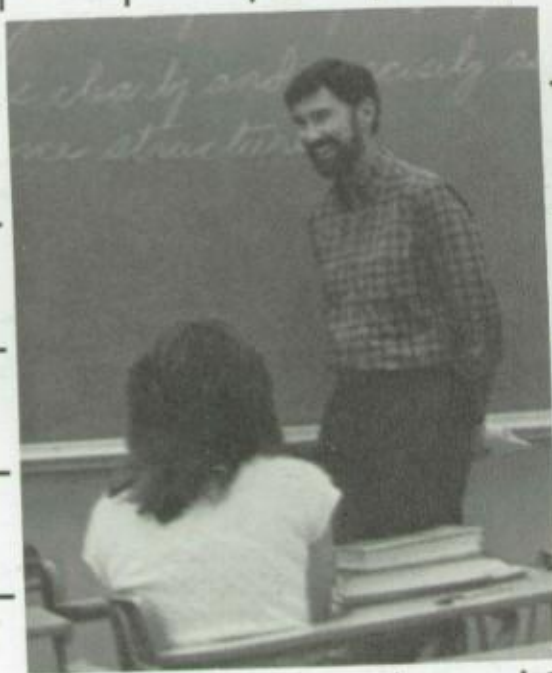

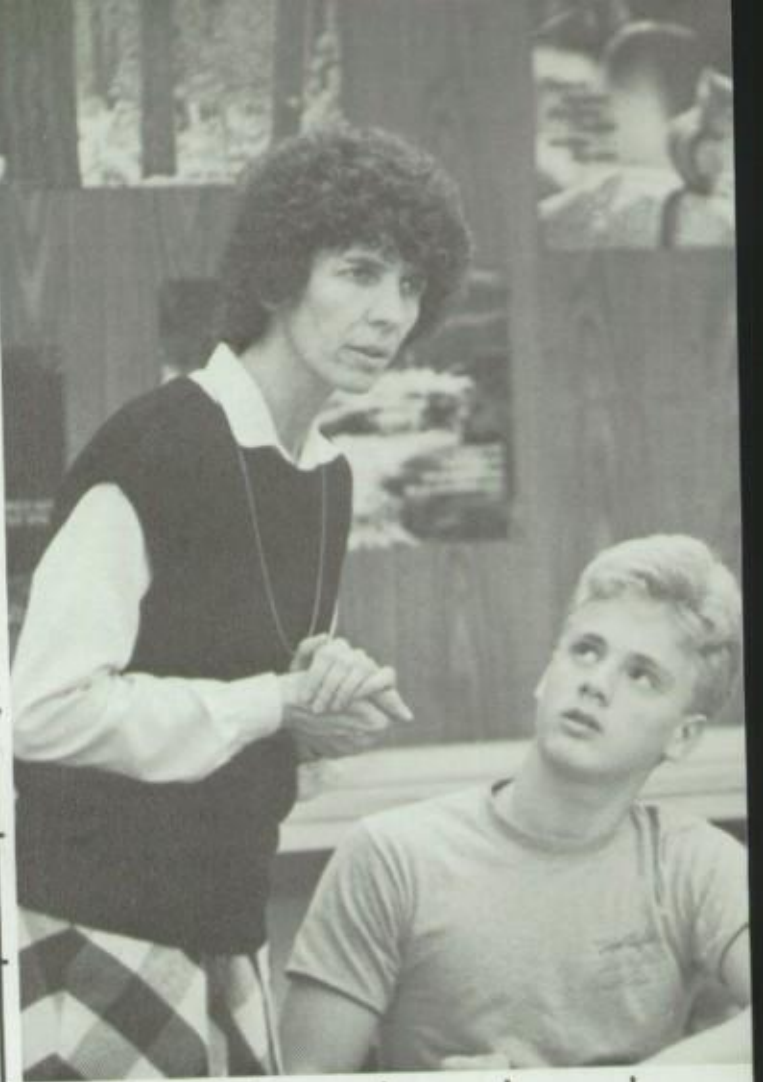

Science students such as Greg Sigsbee enjoyed the field trip to watch the annual whale migration along the Southern California coast. Sponsored by Mr. Newton the group first toured the tide pools before boarding for the actual whale watch. In the photo Gene Peters records his memories on the Kodak disc.

Easy for some, hard for most, English is at the center of most of our lives. To think where our conversations would lead without the intellectual stimulation of Mr. Phillips or Mrs. Hippie? Who could forget those assignments, the blue books every week, and the daily journals were just the beginning — those term papers were the end. The research for eighty-five page papers proving or disproving the existence of God was devastating.

Cathy Doty, as most, almost lost her life during the final vocabulary test second semester and good ol' Rob Perkins breezed through without missing a breath. Photo 1: Mrs. White and Larry Sorrough 2. On February second some of the Corona High students spent a long Saturday at the Riverside County Courthouse, where they went through three trials trying to either find Cynthia Ballard guilty or not. The first trial was a practice round in which Corona was the prosecution and the attorneys were Joe Espinoza and George Davis.

Although a verdict of not guilty was announced, Corona put up an impressive showing. During the next two trials Kirk Harkey and Broc Gray got their opportunity to defend. From the beginning, the judge leaned toward the prosecution. (really Shannon Dill was guilty) and we had the same judge for the next 2 outings. One week later we returned to prosecute Ms. Ballard again. Unfortunately a decision of 'not guilty' was again read. Although we lost every trial, the experience gained was most valuable, both in knowledge of the courts and public presentation. Photo 1. Elke Rosenbauer as Genevieve LaFrance 2. MOCK TRIAL

With 1985, girl's soccer was launched with style . . . playing in the Citrus Belt League, the Panthers were captained by Dennis Gomes, because the Ivy League has not established a girl's soccer program. What a season it was, strong wins against Norco, the tie against San G, and a bid at 3A CIF playoffs. Corona finished its first season in league play with a 7-3-2 record; one-half game behind Rim of the World. The Panthers began league play with a tie with Rim of the World. Corona had strong defensive play at mid-field by Carol Gunn and Megan Sjurson and the back-field; especially Lisa Bell at goal keeper. As we advanced to Norco, team members found themselves playing against many former teammates from AYSO and other city league play. The Panthers were up, and "played their best," of the early season said Coach Gomes. It was Corona's game throughout. Amy Johnson and Kristy Young were standouts at forward and easily our maneuvered the Cougar defense. Roxanne Best and Sandy Mathis helped keep the Corona goal box free, 2-0, before the Spirit Week crowd. Corona beat Cajon in a somewhat lifeless battle, and lost two powerfully fought battles to San Geronio and Redlands. The Panthers ended first round play against Fontana, winning 3-0, on a penalty kick from Mathis and two goals by Young. Debbie Griffin moved to fullback position and played exceptionally well as did Darla Bell. Johnson and the Panthers had an exceptional game against Rim of the World in second round play only to loose 1-0 at the mountain field. It was probably Corona's strongest game at this point. Despite the loss, Corona's defense was awesome. Rim was followed by the Cougars, but with different results. Young had an exceptional outing, with three goals, (one on a hat trick) and Best footed one at forty yards to outdo Norco 4-0. Lisa Bell and Sjurson were joined on defense in the shut out by Leanne Nett and Amy Easum. February 13, Corona clinched a spot in CIF, by beating Cajon 3-0, on goals by Young, Cindy Raahauge and Darlene Webb. Johnson was again awesome from the outside. Corona ended their first league season with a hard fought battle against San Geronio ending in a 1-1 tie. CIF . . . we were there, only to lose it in a shoot-out, 3-2. Lisa Bell was exceptional at the goal box, as were her teammates throughout the field. Corona's first season had ended, an exceptional season, exceptional individuals, efforts, plays, combinations, and record.

Coach Gomes' Panthers placed four on the first All-League team, sophomores Lisa Bell-goal keeper, Amy Johnson-forward, Megan Sjurson-middle-field, and Sandy Mathis-fullback. Darla Bell received second all-league honors.

GIRLS SOCCER

GO CIF

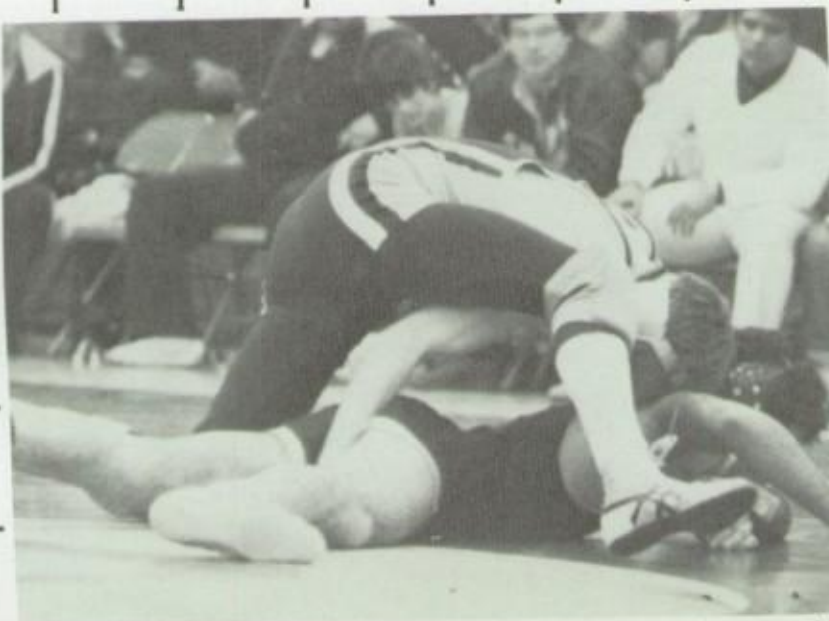

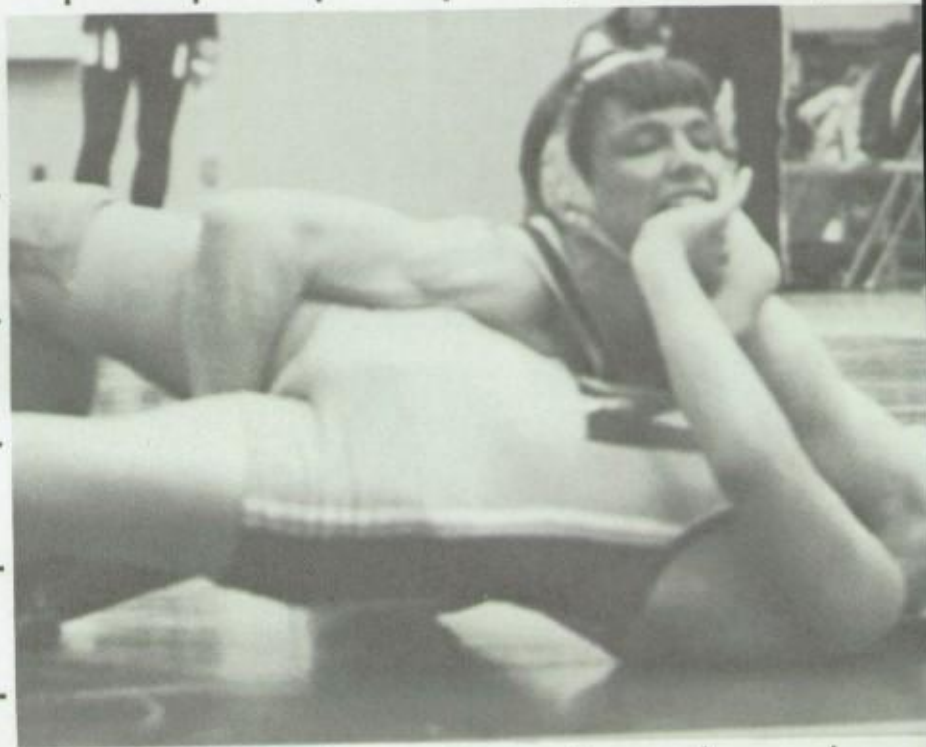

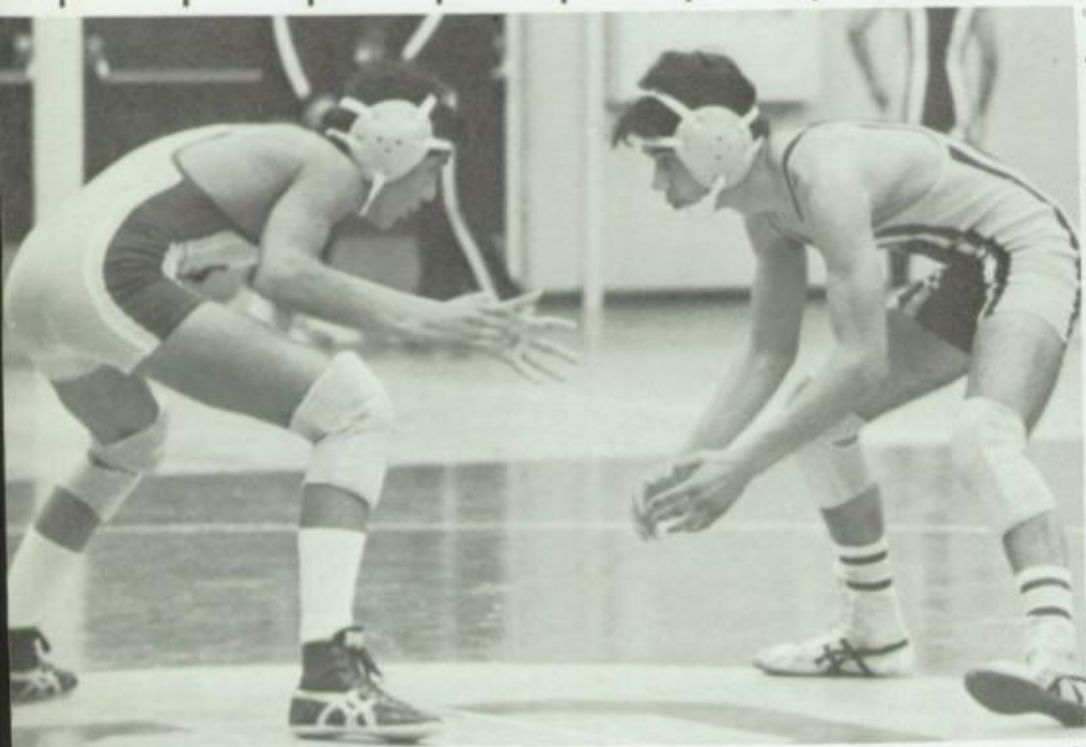

BOYS SOCCER

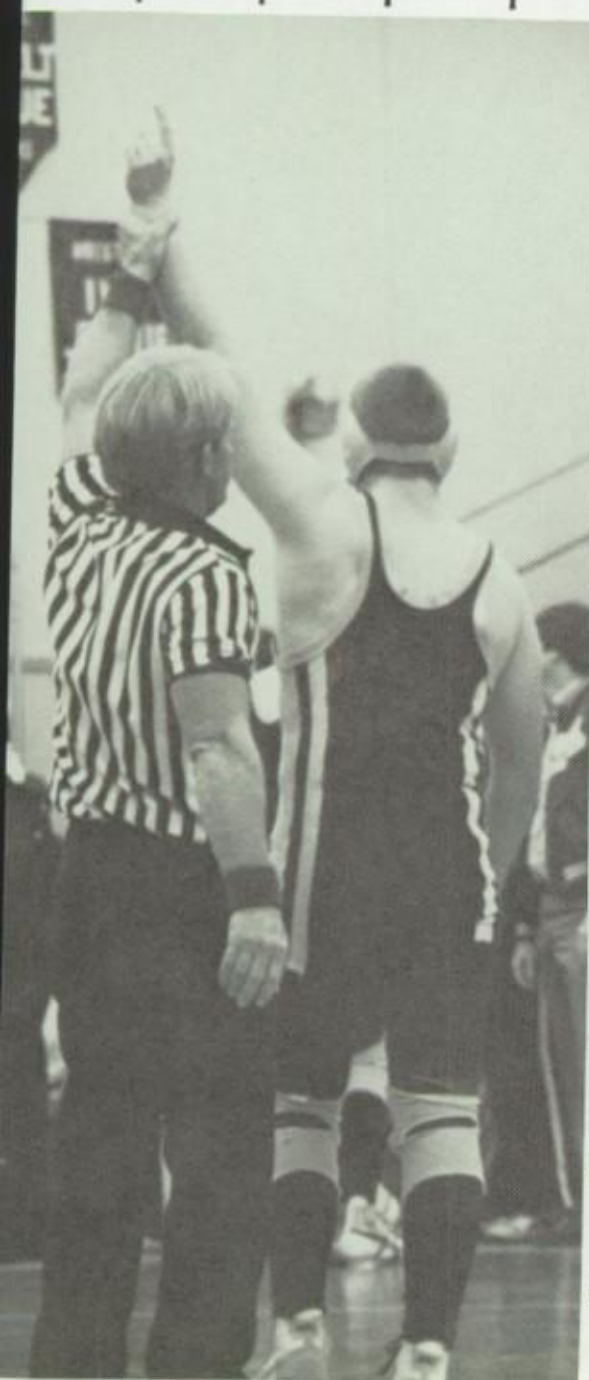

The boy's soccer season was one of newness, disappointment, regrouping, survival, and accomplishment. Winning a CIF birth the fifth year in a row, Coach Hughes' Panthers finished the season with a 14-6 over all record. Fielding a team led by strong returning lettermen, they saw hopes of an expected league title fade as they dropped league openers to Arlington and North. In the Arlington contest Corona missed two penalty kicks and lost all-CIF defender, Rusty Schoenherr to injury. At North the Panthers fell only after a hard fought battle and some questionable calls from the black and white, Mike Zubek had some beautiful saves at fullback. After some reorganization, Matt Gavin took over the goal box, Darryl Spawr took to center full and Corona took Hemet to a 3-1 loss. At Perris Stan Gray and Jesus Espinoza fond the goal box as Gavin kept Perris scoreless. Corona became 4-2 in league as we downed Ramona 3-1 with Espinoza, Andy Arredondo and Spawr scoring on strong defensive play by Horacio Juarez and Mike Wilhelm. After beating a strong team unit at Moreno Valley, the Panthers finished the first round with a strong win over Norco, playing on the Cougar's field, the Panthers were over-powering offensively and awesome on the defense as Dan Archuleta and Felipe Montenegro had a strong game at mid-field as did Spawr at fullback. Penalty kicks became Corona's demise again as the Panthers took another 2-0 loss to Arlington, and dropped again to North. Corona recorded 3-1 as they downed Hemet. Having a strong offensive game, Stan Gray had one of his best outings. Spawr had another impressive showing as he scored off a Gray corner kick and keep the goal box safe. Juarez scored on a break as did Espinoza off a Montenegro corner kick. Corona totally over powered Perris in their second outing, keeping the Panther goal completely free and the score completely one sided. Allen Hughes and Rick Selby joined Spawr and Zubek for a strong back field defense. Against Moreno, Corona earned its CIF berth and second place standings in league. Corona beat the Vikings 3-2, with Archuleta having still another outstanding game as did Steve Dempsey at fullback. At Ramona Gray had his problems, but the strong center field play kept the offensive fed for the win. And then it was Norco again. Schoenherr was back; in a robust game Corona again prevailed in the cross-town battle, defeating Norco 3-1. And then it was CIF and Diamond Bar; Schoenherr and Spawr had extremely strong games but the Brahmas were too much, downing further championship hopes. Seniors Darryl Spawr, Andy Arredondo, and Jesus Espinoza won All-League first team honors. Second team honors went to Stan Gray, Felipe Montenegro, Horacio Juarez, and Alonzo Montes, while Dan Archuleta and Mike Zubek received honorable mention at the all-league level. At the season end banquet Coaches Hughes and Spawr awarded the following: Most Valuable Player-Darryl Spawr; Co-Captains-Dan Archuleta, Darryl Spawr; Most Valuable Defense-Spawr; Most Valuable Offense-Andy Arredondo; Coaches' Award-Alonzo Montes; Academic Achievement-Archuleta; Army Award-Spawr. On the Junior Varsity level, Coach Grove's Panthers had an outstanding season, going undefeated in league play. Javier Ambriz was named Most Valuable and Team Captain; Todd Hoehn-Most Valuable Defense; Manuel Navares-Most Valuable Offense; Coaches' Award-John Vandenburg; Academic Achievement-Shawn Weebe. WRESTLING

Full work-outs started in the middle of November for the Corona Panthers Wrestling Team. The full team soon developed into a group of hard working guys, ready for a tough season in the Ivy League. The season began with new head coach, Joel Williams and assistant coach Louis Garcia. The first outing proved to be successful with the Panthers beating Rubidoux 39-30. Next was the Rim of the World Five Way Tournament, where Corona came home with five individual medals: second-Don Craine, Todd Barron, Guillermo Najar, Frank Ruvalcaba, and a first place to Randy Baumgardner. In the next two dual meets Corona dominated; Yucaipa fell 50-22 and Notre Dame 57-6. At the Rubidoux Tournament Todd Barron placed first, and Najar fourth in his class, while at the JV Elisnore Tournament Benny Murillo, Fred Lewis and Gene Stuckenschneider won medals. Todd Barron repeated his first place medal performance at the Valencia Tournament and Najar placed second. In their first league match of the season the Panthers truly dominated, 77-1, with everyone having a pin. At Hemet Najar received a 9-6 decision as Corona lost the meet to the powerful Bulldogs. Against North Craine Barron and Baumgardner had a pin, while against Arlington the Panthers made a strong showing with Dino Sanchez pinning his opponent in the first period followed by pins by Victor Serrato, Craine, Murrilo, and Baumgardner; Gary Lewis received a 14-4 decision, Barron and Najar were on top of their matches. At the Riverside County Tournament in January Najar and Barron again had medal performances. As Corona hosted Norco, fans witnessed a strong battle, Steve Perez held Gutierrez of Norco to 3 periods in another strong performance; while Serrato, Gary

Lewis, Barron and Fred Lewis all pinned their opponents. For the final league dual meet of the season the Panthers traveled to Ramona, to pin the Rams 45-24. Mark Lastra had another excellent match with a 12-2 decision, Craine and Barron received the ref's wave and Gary Lewis won a hard decision 9-8. Barron placed first at the league meet; Baumgardner-second; and Dino Sanchez third, earning the right to advance in CIF. The season consisted of six wins, four losses in league and a tie for third place in the Ivy League. Individual Varsity League standings were as follows: 100lbs.-Mark Lastra 4-2; 107-Dino Sanchez 3-3; 114-Steve Perez 1-4; 121-Victor Serrato 4-2; 128-Don Craine 4-2; 134-Gary Lewis 4-2; 140-Benny Murillo 3-3; 147-Richard Foley 1-5; 157-Todd Barron 6-0; 168-Randy Baumgardner 3-3; 178-Fred Lewis 2-4; 194-Frank Ruvalcaba 2-4; Heavywgt.-Guillermo Najar 5-1. After a season of strong individual performances and intense effort Todd Barron received the Most Valuable Wrestler Award, Most Inspirational-Randy Baumgardner; Most-Improved-Dino Sanchez; Captain-Guillermo Najar; while Victor Serrato received the Coaches' Trophy. Gene Stuckenschneider was awarded MVP for the junior varsity and David Arellano was voted Most Improved. Rebounding from encouraging pre-season and holiday tournament play the Panthers entered Ivy League competition with a great deal of enthusiasm. Led by All-Leaguer Deneen Long the Panthers were an aggressive team under the boards. Seniors Chris Romero and Sandy Angulo were constantly an inspiration and motivation for the team as they managed the Panthers' back court. Pam Randel came up from the JV's at mid-season to give the Panthers greater depth at center. In early league play, Long led with 23 points as Corona led Arlington by a very slim margin throughout the entire contest. At Perris, Corona really dominated the court, leading 27-14 at half-time. Long netted 17 and had 12 rebounds, as did Marilyn Hayes. For most, as Chris Romero, North provided the toughest games, both at home and away, their defense was really aggressive, as the Huskies held Long inside. In early February Corona again blocked our defense and took Hemet by three points. Against Hemet, Long had 24, M. Hayes and Sandy Angulo-12, Joyce Hayes-6, Romero-6, Randall-2, and Denise Wilson-3. At the Junior Varsity level Kim Yost and Julie Vitale led their team to a 27-22 game against the Bulldogs. Coach Guillen awarded the Coaches' Trophy to Julie Vitale at the year end awards festivities, while Kim Yost was Most Valuable Junior Varsity and Debra Long-Most Improved. On the Varsity, Coach James announced Deneen Long-Most Valuable Player; Chris Romero-Most Inspirational; Denise Wilson-Most Hustle; Pam Randel-Most Improved. The team voted Romero Team Captain Honors for her outstanding leadership qualities throughout the season. With a consolation championship and a few losses in the pre-season play under their belts, the CHS Boys' Basketball team seemed ready for anything coming their way. It looked as if Corona had a good chance at the playoffs, Coach Pratt was optimistic, but things later changed drastically by mid-season play. Even though Corona's record was not the best on paper, there was much excitement to be seen and fun to be had throughout the season. The almost defunct BRA club was at every home game to see if Courtney Davis would score his predicted twenty points, or if Burnie Thompson would face somebody and do a slam dunk. The cheerleaders joined the BRA club to keep things alive, and well within league regulations for crowd participation. The thirteen man squad, consisting of seven returning lettermen and six from the junior varsity, ended the season with four wins and ten losses in league competition. Even with the low points in the season, the controversy over Davis to the two losses against Norco, or Burnie Thompson being fouled, causing a sprained ankle and three missed games and the slam dunk dissolved, the Panthers provided many exciting moments. In February, against Hemet, George Radke scored twenty-six points and Thompson racked up ten points in the third quarter, both during losing battles. On the winning end Davis scored twenty three points and Matt Ibbetson had seven rebounds in defeating Arlington. And there was more than enough excitement as the Panthers went into overtime against Perris. As for year end awards Davis received Most Valuable Player and recognition for having over one hundred assists. Wayne McKinney was Most Improved Player, David Nelson got the Coaches' Award from Coach Pratt, while the Hustle Award went to Mario Carrizosa for his team spirit and motivation. IT WAS SPECIAL

Love ya
Christine
Weaver

From the very first day at El Cerrito school Susan Schreiner, David Drysol, Mike Hastings, and Brenden Snyder developed a lasting friendship, through kick ball games, water fights, and dates. When Patricia Santana said 'Hi' to Mary Pena they knew that their friendship was special. Cindy Radick and Ramona Graves have helped each other with their homework, boyfriends and just what to do next. That's what it's all about, how would we have gotten to school, to Burger King at lunch, and home? Who would have given you that homework assignment you missed in Biology or the vocabulary words for English? Friends... they were someone to tell our troubles to, to laugh at and with, the people who made everything exciting.

Spot!

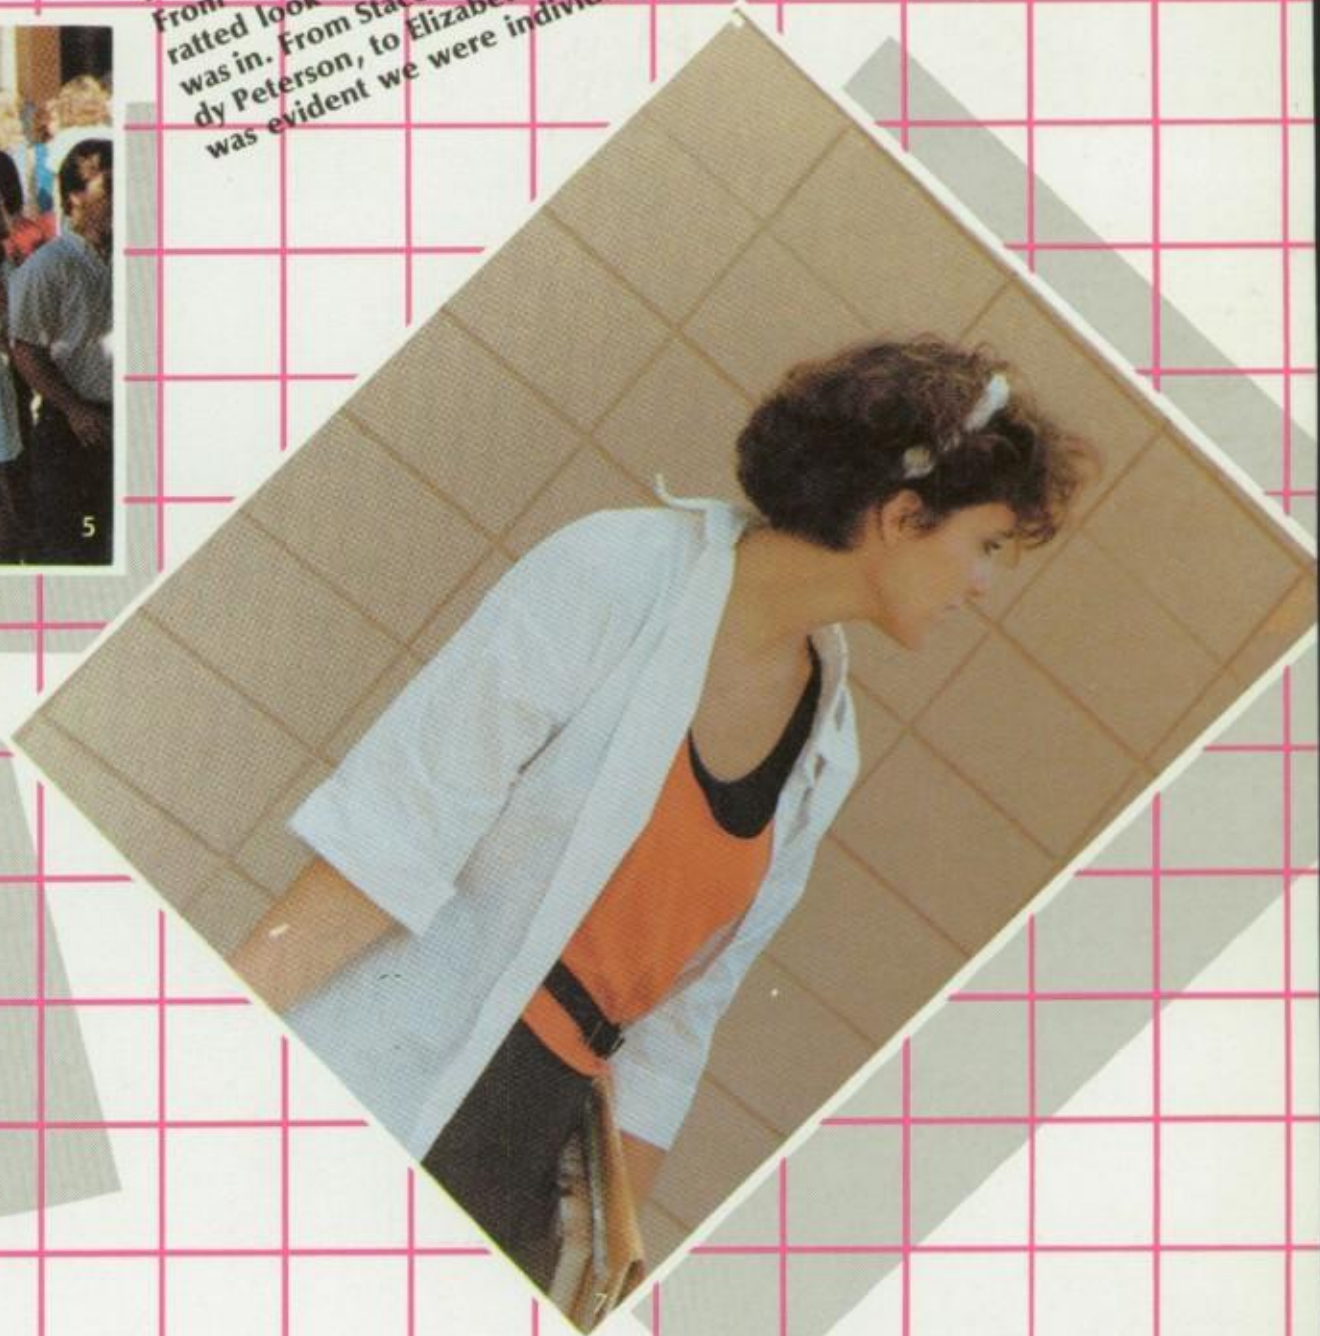

Flourescent colors in bright pinks, oranges, yellows, and greens; tank tops, jump suits, socks, belts, earrings, nail polish, shoes, and sweatshirts vibrated in wild color. The surfer crowd, known for contemporary design and Maui and Sons designs. People like Robby Smith, Robert Chosek, Ronny Williams, Robert Reed and Mike Puhl were among the trend setters of the surfer group. We also noticed the change to a use of designs on the surf styles shirts. For example, the well known sea wave print became a modern graphic. Alex Lopez and many others were into the styles of the break-dancers, wearing pleated baggie pants, gloves, lots of belts, head and ankle ties, and an earring in the left ear. Carlos Mory did most of his shopping at Millers' Outpost, Chess King, J. Jacobs and many of the major department stores. Ann Colapinto found many of her striking clothes at Judys', Contempo and Clothetime. 501 Levis remained a campus favorite with the conservative crowd. With the fitness craze, sweats of all colors were popular after Robert and his friends. The fashion was as varied as the hair styles and the personalities under them. From the short cut of David Simons to the wild ratted look of Gina Reardon, personal expression was in. From Stacey Sesulka to Mike Puhl and Wendy Peterson, to Elizabeth Perez to Jerry Vasquez; it was evident we were individuals.

“Ok, Ok, you can have the car.” Those wonderful words that most of us dreamed of hearing. Then finally it happened, one day that beautiful piece of machinery was yours. It may have been a great 56’ Chevy, that just needed a little work, or a hot truck with a new engine. Even if it was just a roach mobile with an aluminum body and a motor from an old moped, at the time, it was the best thing to fall into your life. Then the big question: When can you start driving? Well, for most, there were a couple of problems to deal with. First of all, it seemed as though there was always some terrible little gremlin hiding inside the car, pounding on the hood every time you drove faster than 40mph or letting 3 quarts of oil drain down the drive every other night. Often these problems seemed insignificant in comparison to the lack of cash. Scrounging up ten bucks to fill the tank; What good is a full tank, with no insurance? and the final payment on the new mag tires that were a steal.

SWEET

The ASB added two new events to the calendar during second semester to add variety to the extracurricular activities. The Campus Sweetheart Dance on Valentine's Day weekend raised funds for charity as Robert Cotto and Amy Johnson were voted sweetest. In March students performed in the first annual talent show. Before an enthusiastic audience in the gym Pippie Suitor sang "Money Changes Everything," and Dena Brownlow performed classical ballet to illustrate the varied talents of Corona High students. The judges' choices were Instrumental-Lynell Staffanson; Vocal-Pippie Suitor; Dance-Karen Kremer and Dena Brownlow; Misc.-The Brand New Crew (Donato Martinez, Todd Barron, Ronny Williams, Sean Gibson); and the grand prize went to Breakers-Ronny Villa and Tony Talavera. BUSINESS TEACHERS

PREPARE STUDENTS FOR JOB MARKET

The business department of Corona High helped students walk into the business world with a feeling of confidence. Many students like Graciela Serrato, Brenda Jimenez and Alma Russell took accounting and found it a great help obtaining employment and just keeping track of personal finances let alone for future professional business experience. Computers and business machines baffled the brains of students with figures, while beginning students in Mr. Carter's class tried to remember the keyboard without looking. Photo 1: Miss Byrd 2. FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Schwein Hund ... you probably don't realize you've just been slightly insulted. If you do you've probably just completed another year with Mr. Edwards Van Muyen in the world of German. From this simple example you can easily imagine the predicament all of the foreign tourists, that keep Disneyland open, are in. Students in Mrs. Pierce's spanish classes often found amusement and sometimes frustration in giving and receiving commands, or the frustration of a office aid in going through a translator in Mr. Nino's Spanish three class. 1 AGRICULTURE

The semester brought a major change for students enrolled in 'AG' at Corona high, and for the campus as well. It was the resignation of Mr. Hawley and the entering of Mr. Bryant. For some this change was for the worst, a loss, and for others the change was taken in stride, new ways accepted. For many agriculture was exciting, even being able to identify 300 local plants and trees at the years end. Many of the students and faculty members purchased pigs to raise at the lab. It became their responsibility to take care of them until it was time for them to be butchered. For some, it was the first time to witness a slaughter, while the more seasoned ag student knew what to expect. The change of expression on peoples faces suddenly changed, from joy and laughter to shock and sorrow, the second the gun shot sounded and the blood gushed forward from the animal. In industrial arts and homemaking we improved our creative and technical skills through the use of a wide range of tools and equipment. From the advanced tech of the computer lathe to carving a pumpkin students found challenges and enjoyment. For David McClocklin and Cointa Hernandez the computer lathe proved to be a truly rewarding and exciting experience, Marc Flint's creative tides came forth with his design for a coffin bed in Burdick's woodworking two class, and Stacey Sesulka found reward in the On You Own homemaking program, as did Melissa Havener in sewing. Every student, be he a senior or underclassman, has goals. The goals may reach from a wish to make it through the year to an aspiration for a position at the head of a large corporation. A few of the seniors were given recognition in their attempts to pursue their goals with the help of the Bank of America Awards.

The special education department was composed of unique and dedicated individuals. Teachers and aides helped students who needed individual help in specific areas of their school work throughout the year. For some students it was a language barrier, for others it was a reading or comprehension skill that needed strengthening, but no matter, the help was always there as the student needed it. YEARBOOK

STAFF

Clockwise: Lisa Nicoletti, Brenden Snyder, Marc Flint, Steve Marez, Lori Gillmaster, Sheri Engstrom, Sophia Navarro, Victor Serrato, Mikel Baughman, Olivia Reynoso, Tammy Sharek.

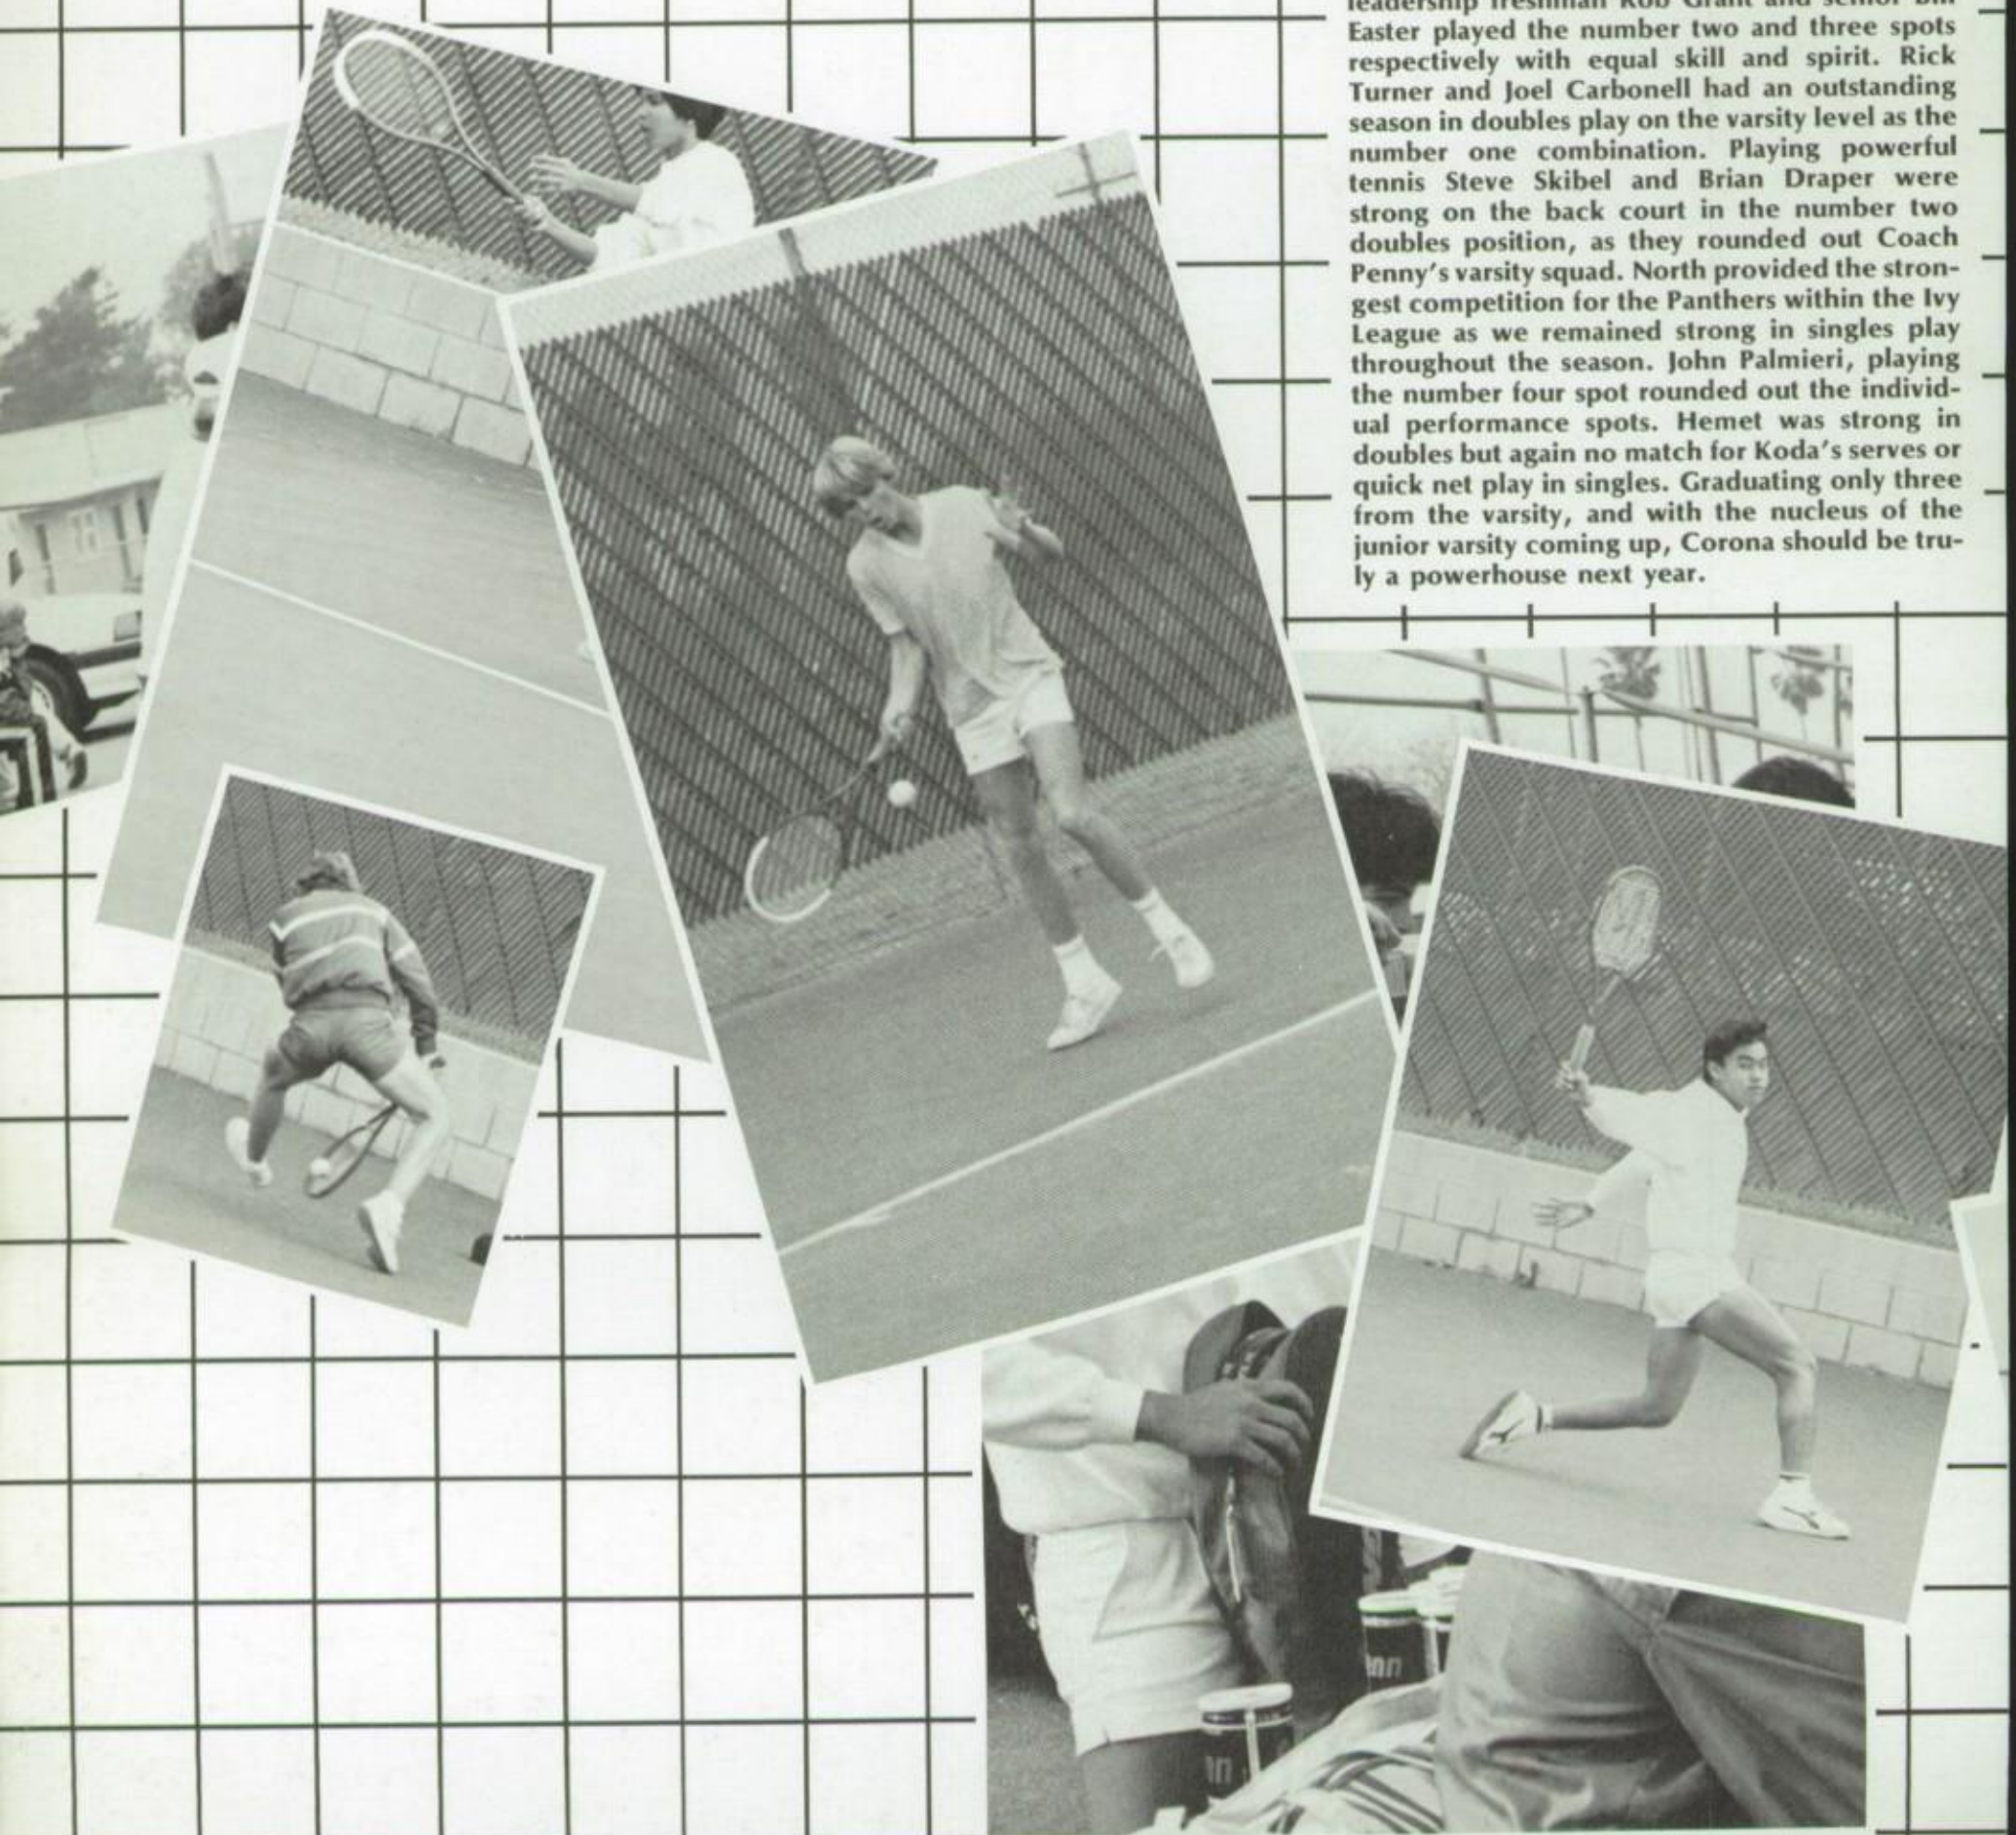

Fielding a young team, Coach Penter started five sophomores on the varsity squad, the Panthers had a strong exciting season. As the yearbook went to press the Panthers were in first place in the competitive Ivy League. Led by All-League senior shortstop, Roxanne Best and Sandy Angulo, who came to first from catcher this season, the Panthers easily defeated Perris in the season opener. After some chilly pre-season play at Apple Valley Corona had a strong outing against an impressive Moreno team. Michelle Robinson returned this season as a strong hitter, compiling an impressive set of RBI's on the stat sheet. Speed became the center of the Panthers offensive play, with Amy Jackson, Elke Rosenbauer, and Denise Wilson stealing alot of bases. Best and Wilson provided an impressive combination at short and second on defense. Sophomore Sandy Mathis had an outstanding season from the mound and provided excellent defense on plays to Angulo at first. Row 3: Sandy Angulo, Julie Vitale, Elke Rosenbauer, Sandy Mathis, Janice Watson, Leslie Wilson, Eileen LeBeau. Coach Penter.

Led by the power and attitude of junior Erik Koda, the Panthers had an excellent spring season on the courts. In pre-league and early season play Koda found little competition as he easily defeated his opponents 6-0. With Koda's leadership freshman Rob Grant and senior Bill Easter played the number two and three spots respectively with equal skill and spirit. Rick Turner and Joel Carbonell had an outstanding season in doubles play on the varsity level as the number one combination. Playing powerful tennis Steve Skibel and Brian Draper were strong on the back court in the number two doubles position, as they rounded out Coach Penny's varsity squad. North provided the strongest competition for the Panthers within the Ivy League as we remained strong in singles play throughout the season. John Palmieri, playing the number four spot rounded out the individual performance spots. Hemet was strong in doubles but again no match for Koda's serves or quick net play in singles. Graduating only three from the varsity, and with the nucleus of the junior varsity coming up, Corona should be truly a powerhouse next year.

BOYS TENNIS

PANTHERS BASEBALL

With Wilkerson, the Fritzs', and Wallace as assistants, Coach Phillip's coaching staff provided a strong nucleus for an almost totally new varsity squad. Mental attitude, was the key as the squad, after months of conditioning, became a well rounded unit, with a strong sense of comraderie and spirit. Led by the pitching of Skeet Pope, the Panthers defeated Apple Valley in a seven inning thriller as Raul Moreno stole home for the winning run. Mike Kummer, sophomores Jason Young and Gene Stuckenschneider, and Andy Arrendondo provided a strong bull/pen for Pope in the season. David Cianflocco returned to the varsity line-up as catcher, with renewed confidence and maturity, he was backed by Anthony Garcia at the plate. Wilkerson's infield provided the center for the Panther defense, Chris DeMola at first, Chris Gonzales and Mario Carrizosa at second, Courtney Davis at short, while JD Tenberg and Jesse Ramirez shared third base responsibilities. Young, Panta Rivera and Chuck Felix provided the necessary strength in the outfield to complete the defensive unit. Tenberg proved valuable throughout the season with the DH responsibilities, as DeMola, Davis, Cianflocco, and Felix came up with impressive stats at the plate. Both Davis and Young had impressive plays at stealing needed bases in the season. Coach Phillips was pleased with the team, their aggressive attitude and total responsibility to the team unit. SWIM TEAM

Individual concentration and extreme dedication gave the swim team the depth and strength it needed to become an Ivy League power. Bob Bullock and Lisa Patterson, in their first year of coaching CIF swimming saw beginning competitive swimmers such as Ron Reid and Leanie Love develop. Returning lettermen, sophomore Alyssa Dorn was a CIF contender from the beginning, giving impressive performances in the 100 and 200 free and fly events. Kelliagh Wilson, a freshman gave the girls great strength in the distance swimming, performing top times in the 500 free. Kelliagh had an excellent swim against the strong competition with North and won her free events. Dorn was joined by Lizette Ashcraft-breast; Kari King-back; and Cindy Soliday-free; for the varsity girls IM relay. Patterson was looking for CIF times from them in early season. Returning junior Eric Dorn-breast; and Mark McGee-distance were joined by a strong group of freshmen in Charlie Stevens-fly; Guy Knox-sprints; and Brandon Paul-relays, to give the boys team even greater depth. The boy's IM was probably the strongest of the varsity level relays. Rob Perkins and Chris Colliday had strong individual showings in back throughout the season, as did E. Dorn and JB Grimmet in breast. David Schillen joined Colliday, Knox, and Grimmet for the free relay and swam individual sprint events. Stevens was expected to make CIF in butter with McGee to join the Dorns and Wilson in the prestigious CIF events. Photo 1, Row 1 (l-r): Glenn Stephens, Steve Rivera, Coach Bob Bullock, Charlie Stevens. Row 2. JB Grimmet, David Schillen, Brandon Paul, Chris Colliday, Rob Perkins, Ken Wys. Row 3. Under new directions from Coach Newton, Corona fielded one of the largest, most impressive teams in recent years. Nat Tucker and Ron Haines had good seasons at the high and long jump respectively; improving personal records as the season developed. Don Webb, Tom Bloomfield and Guillermo Najar again performed well at the shot put as did Randy Clemens with the discus. Horacio Juarez, Jeff Figueroa, Doug Barnes, Mike Puhl and Ken Woodall provided the strength in the distance events as Corona pulled out victories in the 880, mile, and two-mile events. At San G. and other early season meets, junior Bobby Arellano led the Panthers in hurdles with support from Wayne McKinney, Pablo Larez, and Randy Baumgardner. Brad Glassick and Mark Newberry gave the Panthers needed depth in the track as Tucker and Haines with Robert Cotto ran sprints. Brent Benson, 13'-6" in early season was strong in pole vault, backed by Cameron Daniels and Larez as the Panthers rounded out their field events. The girls were again led by standout senior Deneen Long on the track. Marilyn Hayes was outstanding as a sprinter and in the hurdles, while Megan Sjurson gave impressive display in early season distance events. Julie Smith, Roseland Warner and Kristy Young also had a good year in the sprints. In the field events Geri Higgins led the girls at the shot and had a good year in the high jump arena; she gave needed competition to veteran Chris Romero at the shot as they bettered personal records at 37 feet. It was a new, more competitive; with Perris; league, new head coach; more intense practice programs; and inner team competition that gave the Panthers incentive, spirit, and personal attitudes to achieve as individuals and team.
